The LESTER PATRICK

Story

(After more than half a century connected with hockey, both in Canada and the United States, Victoria's Lester Patrick has decided to make a permanent retirement from the game. In a 10-part series, Archie Wills, former sports editor and former managing editor of the Times, tells the human story of Lester through the days of his greatest fame until the present. This is the fifth installment.

HIS GREATEST GAME

It is rather unusual to hear an outstanding athlete declare that his greatest game was played in a small town, far from the "madding" throng of ten or twelve thousand screaming fans in a metropolitan city.

But that's the way it was with Lester Patrick. Looking back over 50 years in hockey, he thinks he gave his greatest performance and gained the greatest personal satisfaction out of a game played in Rossland, B.C., in the 1907-08 season.

Wills

The Rossland rink was a mere box, 165 feet by 65 feet, about half the size of the ice surface at Memorial Arena.

Rossland was a rollicking mining town and the folks took their hockey like their liquor, straight. When they learned that Nelson would be captained by "that Stanley Cup player" Lester Patrick, they planned to ride him out of the rink if necessary.

RAZZBERRY

As soon as the Nelson players appeared for the warm-up, the Rossland fans turned on the razzberry machine-gun. The fire was aimed directly at Lester.

Before the opening whistle, Lester skated over to his defence partner, and said:

"Listen, I'm not venturing far down the ice tonight. I'm going to stand on a dime and use that. Every time I get the puck I'll pass it to you. You're the big shot."

"What's the big idea?" asked the perplexed defence man. "I got an idea," was all Lester said.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's official reserves of gold and United States dollars declined in February for the second consecutive month, decreasing by $10,900,000 to $1,919,700,000.

Our Father, the needs of our world weigh heavy on our shoulders. Give us eyes to see the need, ears to hear the cries, and hands to help those to whom we may minister. QUADS BORN IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. W. S. Munro, 34, today gave birth to quadruplets—three girls and a boy—in St. Joseph's Hospital in nearby Lachine. The births were said to be premature by two months. There are five other children in the Munro family, who live in suburban Pointe Claire. The father is 35.

U.K. Doctors Order Strike

Mass Resignation in Fall
Planned in Pay-Hike Drive

(UP and Reuters)

LONDON—British doctors today announced strike action against the state to press claims for higher pay and presented a detailed plan to pull out of the national health service next fall.

The plan called for a progressive "snowball" withdrawal starting Oct. 2 of all doctors by means of resignations from the national health service.

British doctors asked last June for an all-around salary increase of 24 per cent.

The government rejected the doctors' claim in February but announced that a royal commission would be appointed to "review medical remuneration."

A 24 per cent increase would have lifted an average general practitioner's earnings to $7,560.

Doctor A. Talbot Rogers, chairman of the General Medical Services Committee and joint chairman of the negotiating committee of the medical profession, presented the doctors' withdrawal plan at a press conference today.

Dockers Strike at Southampton

Meanwhile dock workers struck at the port of Southampton today to protest the use of government tugs in aiding the liner Queen Mary sail for New York. The action threatened to paralyze the vast trans-Atlantic terminal.

The 2,000 dock workers, mostly shore gangs who handle the direct traffic in the port, joined 10,000 shipyard workers' and repairmen on strike since Saturday as part of a nation-wide stoppage in support of a 10 per cent wage increase.

The shipyard workers claimed repairs on the $1,000-ton Queen Mary had not been finished when the shipyard strike began last Saturday. The walkout of 250,000 men closed 70 shipyards and stopped work on 300 vessels under construction.

The crews of privately owned tugs refused to help move the

New York-bound Queen Mary. Six government tugs got her out of the harbor. Many of the 910 passengers lined the Queen Mary's deck to cheer the tugs.

Labor Minister Iain Macleod was fighting two more giant strike threats from unions demanding 10-per-cent wage increases, the same percentage increase sought by shipyard workers.

The threats came from engineering and railway workers. The engineering unions have called a phased strike starting Saturday. It would bring out by stages 2,500,000 workers.

The union plans an initial walkout of 1,000,000 men in 10 vital industrial regions, with others joining daily until key plants in Britain are crippled by April 6.

HOUSE RECESSED TO COOL TEMPER

Shouting, Fist-Shaking In Cassiar Road Hassle

A yelling, fist-shaking debate erupted in the legislature Wednesday night as opposition members clashed with the government over the Cassiar-Stewart road.

At the height of the storm, when half a dozen members were on their feet shouting "sit down" and "shut up," chairman Alex Matthews ordered an emergency recess.

He bolted out of the chamber after calling the 15-minute time out to "allow members to cool down."

Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) touched off the debate during discussion of mines department estimates by reading from a report by Edgar A. Jamieson, former sergeant-at-arms in the legislature, who was named by the provincial government to investigate reports of wastage on the Stewart-Cassiar road construction during 1955.

Government members claimed Mr. Jamieson, a professional engineer, had been "out to break" the former mines and lands and forests minister (Robert Sommers) and his report was "biased and prejudiced."

Mr. Nimsick insisted that as Mr. Jamieson had made a report to the government it should be "thoroughly investigated."

"If it had not been for this report the government would have wasted more money on the road," he said. "Although the

Special Problems Private Matters In U.K. View

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Ready Canadian support of a British contention that the United Nations must not be entrusted with all crucial world problems was anticipated today as Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower held the first formal session of their Bermuda conference.

The British and American leaders met in the boardroom of the Mid-Ocean Club, the exclusive hostelry where they held an informal dinner talk Wednesday night on global problems they will tackle during the rest of the week.

The Middle East crisis was announced as the most urgent issue on the agenda as Macmillan and Eisenhower formally began their talks this morning.

Reuters said a possible boycott of the Suez Canal should Egypt discriminate against British and French shipping will be among measures to be considered.

Britain was understood to have put forward this proposal. Canadian officials here in advance of the talks starting Monday between Macmillan and Prime Minister St. Laurent were taken aback when they learned that the future of the UN will be a prime topic of the Anglo-American conference called to heal wounds in relations suffered during the Suez crisis.

But they are prepared to discuss the UN thoroughly, even though Anglo-Canadian trade will be the chief subject on the St. Laurent-Macmillan get-together which follows the big two talks.

Pearson Leans Toward U.K. View

In the Canadian view, the British feel isolated not only from the United States but also to some extent from the Commonwealth as a result of the Anglo-French Suez intervention last fall.

They feel frustrated, it is said here, by an apparent double standard in the UN.

That is, Britain obeyed the UN's Suez resolutions while other countries such as Russia and Egypt continue to ignore UN calls or even treat them with contempt.

It is understood that Macmillan doesn't intend to propose revision of the UN charter, but that he will point out to Eisenhower that complete reliance cannot be placed on the UN to solve difficult world problems.

This attitude already has received a measure of support from Canadian External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson who has said that there is a tendency in some countries to avoid facing up to the realities of national policy by relying completely on the UN.

He has said the UN is no substitute for the formulation and execution of wise national foreign policies.

Pearson made clear he was not referring to any particular nation or nations but it is generally accepted here that his reference included the United States.

Pearson also objected to some countries in the UN criticizing Britain and France as "colonial Powers" while ignoring the fact that Russia is the greatest colonial power in the world today.

The St. Laurent and Macmillan talks on this subject, it is considered here, are likely to help bring Canada and Britain closer together after the Suez crisis.

American sources said Eisenhower, as a priority item, is seeking a full outline of Britain's plans to reduce its military forces round the world.

They said American officials see a serious possibility that the United States might have to make new commitments of its own to keep western defences from being weakened in the face of continuing Soviet pressure.

Ike on Spot on Mid-East Issue

Middle East discussions will include the next moves to be taken if Egypt refuses to allow Israeli shipping through the Suez Canal.

Such a refusal could cause serious embarrassment to Eisenhower who has told Israel she will have no cause to regret her withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area.

Macmillan and Eisenhower spent two hours in their first session discussing such urgent problems as the Gaza Strip, Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal.

It was announced that Eisenhower summoned more advisers from Washington to assist with the discussion of British-American defence and atomic problems.

Peter Hope, spokesman for the British foreign office, said discussion was "a general review of the world situation" and that Macmillan and Eisenhower "exchanged views on the several urgent questions in the Middle East."

RCAF PROBES ROCKET BLAST AT COMOX BASE

Natives Wail As 25 Hanged In 35 Minutes

PRETORIA, South Africa (UP)—South African authorities hanged 25 natives from six scaffolds here today while their relatives' sent up a great tribal wail of mourning from outside the prison walls.

It all took just 35 minutes. The 25 natives were hanged for taking part in a series of raids at Dagga in Natal last year in which five policemen were clubbed to death.

Chicago's Teen-Age Gangs Throwback to Mobster Era

CHICAGO (AP)—Teen-age gangs now are producing Chicago headlines of the same type the adult mobsters did in the past.

The headlines are over stories of crimes of violence—such as the recent slaying of a boy in a hammer attack and a man in a motel robbery.

There's no use burying our heads in the sand," said Walter Devereux, chief investigator of the Chicago crime commission. "This city is not safe to roam in and it's getting worse."

A group of high school boys and girls got into trouble for seeking "kicks" through narcotics. One girl sold family possessions to finance purchases.

Another gang used an eight-year-old boy in its burglary operations. The child was small enough to slip through transoms his bigger buddies couldn't negotiate.

Relatively new to the teenage crime picture is the rising role of delinquent girls. Family court officers report that a six-year survey shows an increase of 89 per cent among the number of girls involved in juvenile crimes, compared to an increase of 54 per cent for boys.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Tsk, Tsk, Tsk!
Such Goings-On

Two elderly ladies left their seats in the public galleries Wednesday night when a hassle developed on the floor of the House.

Possibly they were shocked by the spectacle of four or five legislators shouting abuse at one another while a bewildered and much-harassed committee chairman (Alex Maithe) vainly called for order.

It is clear, however, that most members of the public enjoy these legislative fireworks. Men and women of all ages craned forward watching the contest as eagerly as if they had ringside seats at a wrestling match.

"I hear they put on a good show tonight," remarked one of the buildings staff as I left soon after midnight. He sounded disappointed at not being there during the uproar.

This attitude is not hard to understand when you consider those long and interminable stretches of routine law-making—the droning passage of bills and estimates—when scarcely a note of protest is heard.

Premier's Son Observes House Debate

R. J. Bennett, eldest son of the premier, visited the legislature Wednesday from his home in Kelowna.

He manages the five hardware stores which Premier Bennett established in the Okanagan Valley.

Young Mr. Bennett sat on the floor of the House, a few paces behind his father, and followed proceedings for more than three hours.

Private School Tax Issue Will Be Heated

This applies particularly to the clause which would exempt private schools from municipal taxation, with the government reimbursing the municipalities for loss of taxes.

It is doubtful if there are sufficient protesting backbenchers to force changes in the bill. But there may be enough to hinder its passage.

The Somers-Sturdy case seems to be just about dead as far as the current session is concerned.

Hardly any discussion arose on the issue Wednesday afternoon when debate on the salary vote of Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston came before the House.

Only mention was made by Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook), who asked whether "in view of the serious charges" against the former lands and forests minister (Robert Sommers) there had been any discrepancies in the issue of previous forest management licences.

Mr. Williston said none had been revealed despite close examination upon which George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria) interrupted to say: "If the government can discuss this matter then other members of the House should be allowed to do so."

Mr. Williston promptly dropped the subject.

Found Guilty
Of 28-Year-Old
Gang Killing

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—A jury found 63-year-old James Cockeye O'Leary guilty of murder in the second degree Wednesday in a gangland prohibition era slaying 28 years ago.

Judge Edward G. Colleser set April 12 for sentencing. The charge of second degree murder carries a maximum sentence of 30 years in prison.

O'Leary was tried on an indictment which had lain forgotten since the shooting victim, Alex Schmutz Szabo, fell under a hail of bullets in the rear of a Passaic garage on May 2, 1929.

Four men were charged with the slaying and all were released on bail, O'Leary for $10,000 in 1934. Acting Passaic County Prosecutor Charles S. Joelson found the indictment in his files last December. The whereabouts of the other three are not known.

HOUSE

It was given to the government—that's how partisan it was," Mr. Harding said. "It is disgraceful when we have to attack the professional reputation of a man who was picked by this government to do a job."

He added that no report was brought in to say that Mr. Jamieson's engineering data was wrong.

"You say this report was written to break a minister. You have twisted the words of this man to suit your own purpose."

"He said it in other places," interrupted Premier Bennett.

"You are trying to damage the reputation of a professional engineer," replied Mr. Harding.

Mr. Bennett: "He made that statement whether it was a sincere statement or not."

As Mr. Harding continued speaking, Mr. Bonner kept repeating "Answer the question, answer the question."

"You sit down, I have the floor," Mr. Harding replied.

SHOW SINCERITY

After the members returned from the 15-minute breather, Chairman Matthews called on them to show more "sincerity" in the debate.

The chairman managed to keep a semblance of order.

Mine Minister Kiernan, making the principal government reply to opposition charges, claimed—Mr. Jamieson had "failed to carry out his duties."

Vouchers which Mr. Jamieson had refused to sign for the job were not in Victoria because the engineer had "walked off the job before it was put to bed for the winter," Mr. Kiernan said. "He abdicated his responsibility."

MATCH THEM

The minister declared there were matters involved in the issue that "should be left unsaid," but vowed he would match any opposition charges.

Mr. Kiernan denied it was a "cost-plus project" as maintained by the opposition. Of the $450,000 spent on the road in 1954-55, only $80,000 was to meet the cost-plus clause.

He criticized Mr. Jamieson for stating in a letter covering his report on the road that it was "unbiased." Such a statement should be unnecessary by a professional engineer, he said.

At one point Mr. Nimsick asked the minister, "Is this the trial of Mr. Jamieson?"

STATE FACTS

"If you persist in dragging people through the mud, I will stand up here and state the facts," said Mr. Kiernan.

"That's what we want," said Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

"This job was not necessarily done as economically as it could have been," Mr. Kiernan admitted. "Perhaps a little meat was wasted... but it's not a major issue."

The minister taunted the opposition to continue its attack. "If you still think you can milk some political advantage from it."

"The old whitewash brush again," snapped Mr. Nimsick.

"It is evident tonight," Mr. Strachan said, "that this government is ashamed of what has happened on the Cassiar-Stewart road up to this time—that's why they were all shouting in unison."

The debate came to an end after Mr. Strachan claimed that the road issue should have been placed before the committee early in the session, and there was not much point in pursuing it now.

Suburban Satellites
Just Free-Loaders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A central city should have unilateral power to annex its suburban satellites, says William Zeckendorf.

The "free-loading, carpet-bagging suburbanites aren't entitled to any voice in the decision," he said.

Zeckendorf, president of

Aimed Against
Iron-Ore Export

The provincial government plans to introduce a new tax on mineral property that is aimed at deterring the export of iron ore.

Introduced in the legislature Wednesday, the new act places a tax of up to 10 per cent on the assessed value of crown-granted land containing iron ore that is under production.

The act may apply the tax on other types of minerals but that is not considered likely.

All iron production in B.C. at present is exported. The government is attempting to have a basic iron and steel industry set up in the province through bounties and other concessions.

The new act, similar to legislation in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, circumvents federal legislation which gives Ottawa sole jurisdiction over such a tax.

The tax is placed on the land above the mine instead of on the ore production itself.

A government spokesman said the new tax is intended to "secure revenue from a basic resource where no revenue now is received."

Webb and Knapp, Inc., New York, and a big operator in urban development, told his views at a press conference Wednesday before addressing the American Society of Planning officials.

The test of annexing a suburban town, he said, should be simply:

"Can the town get along without the city, the mother ship? If it can't, it belongs."

Asked if his idea wasn't undemocratic, Zeckendorf retorted:

"Not at all."

"It's the suburban towns who are violating democracy because they don't fully share the responsibilities of their metropolitan region."

"They are satellites—-with police chiefs, mayors and planning commissions. And it is the central city that supports everyone."

Zeckendorf declared suburban residents "are not entitled to enjoy the city's art museums and all the cultural and social assets of the central city—and then go on home and pay their little local taxes."

Zeckendorf said the Toronto plan of metropolitan government "as a prototype is the best thing I know."

Ash Favors
Douglas St.
Underpass

Suggestion of an underpass at Douglas Street for a proposed east-west highway link along McKenzie Avenue in Saanich was greeted favorably by Reeve Arthur Ash Wednesday.

Deputy highways minister Evan Jones, who made the suggestion, said a potentially dangerous intersection would be eliminated.

APPROVED

Preliminary plans for the west end of the highway, which would connect Patricia Bay Highway with the Trans-Canada Highway in the first stage and carry traffic to and from the Cadboro Bay area in the second stage, have been approved by Saanich council.

They were forwarded to the deputy minister for his consideration and advice.

It is hoped the province will pay for a large part of the project.

Mr. Ash said he would seek a meeting to discuss cost-sharing with Highways Minister P. A. Gallagher and possibly Premier W. A. Bennett.

Duncan Man Burned
In Stove Explosion

DUNCAN, B.C. (CP)—An elderly man was seriously burned early today in a flash fire which followed an explosion while he was lighting a small stove.

In serious condition in King's Daughters' Hospital is Frank Doney, in his late 60's, of Cowichan Station.

Mrs. James Martin of Duncan said Mr. Doney had arrived at the Martin home about 10 minutes before the fire to take over her husband's saw-filing business while Mr. Martin was in hospital after a heart attack.

"I told him to light a fire in the stove in the saw-filing shop," Mrs. Martin said. "Then, when I came to the door a few minutes later, I saw him staggering from the building with his clothing on fire."

"I wrapped him in blankets on the ground and screamed as loudly as I could for help."

Some passing loggers came to his aid and were joined later by the Duncan volunteer Fire Department. His smouldering clothing was stripped from him and he was taken to hospital.

About all that remained of Mr. Doney's clothing was the crown of his hat, a badly burned mackinaw and one smouldering shoe ripped from his foot by firemen.

His badly charred pocketbook filled with money was found on the ground.

Firemen said an exploded can which had contained kerosene was found in the shop. The flames did the building with his clothing on fire.

Major Penal Reforms Will Be Implemented

(From Times News Services)

Progress is being made by federal and provincial penal authorities toward implementing some of the sweeping penal reforms recommended by a special committee last year, Solicitor-General Macdonald said Wednesday.

The solicitor-general, government leader in the Senate, said the whole question of pardons is under study by the federal justice department.

Senator Macdonald said a preliminary conference on the recommendations was held with some of the provinces last fall.

Now reports had been received from all provinces and a blueprint was being sent out to the provincial governments as to how the more important recommendations of the committee would be implemented.

Canadians Over-Taxed, Tories Charge

The Progressive Conservative party renewed its charge that the government over-taxed Canadians by $382,000,000 in the last 12 months.

Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto-Eglinton) said the transfer of two $50,000,000 amounts into government reserve accounts was "simply a political manoeuvre" designed to hide some of the over-taxation.

"It is not to be wondered at that this stratagem is resorted to on the eve of an election," he said.

Mr. Fleming was referring to a $282,000,000 surplus for the 1956-57 fiscal year ending March 31, declared by Finance Minister Harris last week.

The surplus figure was arrived at after $50,000,000 was transferred to the civil service superannuation account and a similar transfer was made to a reserve for possible losses on government assets.

Mr. Fleming, speaking as the

CCF Wants New Program for Egg Support

Hazen Argue, CCF farm spokesman proposed a new federal price support program for eggs which, he said, would assure producers of a floor price for all eggs going into interprovincial trade.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, however, replied that a similar plan in the United States had failed and that Canadian egg prices are just as high—or higher—than American prices.

They spoke as CCF and Progressive Conservative members renewed their criticism of the government's present egg support policy.

The policy has been to buy storage eggs from dealers, at about the end of November each year, paying 38 cents a dozen for grade A large. However, purchases also have been made in recent weeks.

Mr. Argue said the whole program should be overhauled.

John A. Charlton, Conservative farm spokesman, said the government leads egg producers to believe there is a floor price under eggs when in fact there is not.

"The government has been laying on this sham for a long time," he said. It should abandon the present plan since it does not work.

Mr. Argue said that under the agriculture department's rule of thumb, the producers can expect 32 cents for grade A large.

He proposed that all dealers covered by the plan should be made agents of the Agricultural Prices Support Board. As agents, they should be required to pay producers a floor price specified for all grades, not just grade A.

The CCF member said that in this manner the federal government could ensure that all eggs going into interprovincial trade would be bought at the floor price.

The House voted an extra $237,000 subsidy to the Union Steamship Company to help maintain its West Coast service.

The vote brought to $562,000 the total subvention to be paid the company in the fiscal year ending March 31 through the Canadian-Maritime Commission.

Finance Minister Harris indicated the government will seek temporary parliamentary authority to pay increased welfare payments announced in his budget if the necessary legislation is not passed this session.

In a statement to the House he said the session "appears to be drawing to a close."

His statement lent weight to speculation that Parliament will close soon—perhaps as early as the end of next week—for a June election.

Final parliamentary approval was given to legislation implementing a Canadian-United States convention to bring the $15,000,000-a-year West Coast pink salmon industry under regulation.

OUTDOOR MASS FOR MAGSAYSAY

Magsaysay Mourners Demonstrate

MANILA (UP)—Troops fired warning shots in the air today to break up demonstrations of grief that turned into near riots at the bier of the late president Ramon Magsaysay. Two persons were injured.

Authorities estimated more than 100,000 persons had filed past the bier at Malacanana Palace by early today. The palace grounds were packed with thousands more waiting their turn.

The casket bearing Magsaysay's body was to be moved by caisson from Malacanana this afternoon to the Luneta Park in downtown Manila. There a pontifical high mass will be celebrated.

The casket then will be taken to the halls of congress where president Carlos P. Garcia will conduct a service before burial is carried out in Manila's north cemetery.

Predicted Own Death

NEW YORK (A)—Eight days before Philippine president Ramon Magsaysay died in a plane crash, he expressed belief political enemies were set on killing him, it was reported Wednesday.

In a dispatch from Manila by Walker Stone, editor-in-chief of Scripps-Howard publications, Magsaysay was quoted as saying concerning his forthcoming bid for re-election:

"They're going to try to bump me off in this campaign. They know they can't win if I live." Stone wrote that he talked with the Philippine president March 9 in what may have been Magsaysay's last interview with a foreign correspondent before his death.

Quebec Convict Captured After Wild 100-MPH Chase

MONTREAL (CP)—Habitual criminal Marcel Aveline, 44, ended the most desperate sally of a long career in crime early today, surrendering ingloriously in a freight yard where he had been tracked after escaping from nearby St. Vincent-de-Paul penitentiary amid a hail of bullets.

"If I had a revolver I'd never have given you the same break," he muttered, bruised and bleeding, to captors who closed in as he attempted to hide in a boxcar.

In his eventual eight hours of freedom, Aveline had scaled the walls of the penitentiary after taking a guard's uniform by force, stolen and smashed up a station wagon after a wild 100 mph ride, given an elderly couple the scare of their lives by holding up with them for six hours, and touched off an 80-man search in the nearby St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac area.

After about six hours at the home of 72-year-old James Silcock, Aveline borrowed some civilian clothes and left. Silcock, police, who surrounded Aveline in a freight yard. So close was capture early in the break that Aveline, only man in the drop, and Colligan was of three to make it, had a revolver snatched by a pursuing guard before he could dash away by car. He left a rifle, also stolen from the prison armory, in the smashed vehicle.

Bermuda and the Breach

PRIME MINISTER MACMILLAN was not exaggerating when he described his current conference with President Eisenhower as one on which "the whole life and future of the free world depends."

There is no doubt but will be discussion of the critical Suez problem, of trade and armaments and the 'cold war'; but back of all these issues, important as they are, is the still more vital question of the relationship between the two great trans-Atlantic partners.

That partnership was strained to the breaking point when Britain lunged in desperation against Egypt last November. The White House for a period of days was not even on speaking terms with Downing Street—a most alarming situation in these critical times.

It was Bismarck who once recognized as one of the most important elements in world politics the fact that Britain and the United States were both English-speaking nations. But for a time that all-important liaison broke down.

During the past few weeks it has been painstakingly rebuilt to the point where the heads of the two countries can meet in a friendly atmosphere to chart a future course. That friendly atmosphere will have a particular advantage, as the British Prime Minister points out.

The son of an American mother, as was his wartime leader, Sir Winston Churchill, and a former confidant of General Eisenhower in the days of the North African invasion, Macmillan said on arrival in Bermuda that "one of the advantages of friendship is that you can be frank with one another." He added that he would be frank and expected Mr. Eisenhower to be the same.

It is to be hoped that this intention will be carried out and that from such frankness will emerge a resumption of solidly based co-operation between the two great powers. Without a close alliance the United States may recede into isolationism, Britain may be forced out of the front rank of world powers to adopt a more neutral attitude in international affairs. The only element to profit by such a development would be Communist Russia.

A successful Bermuda meeting—in essence, rather than merely in formal communiques—will be the worst news the Kremlin will have had in a long time.

It is not perhaps widely recognized how serious the rift between Britain and the United States has been. The new American ambassador to London is reported to have been highly alarmed by the scarcely concealed antagonism he found in many quarters. Blame can be laid on both sides. Bermuda must heal that breach without qualification.

There will, of course, be much more to it than a mere exchange of friendly assurances, even though these may be sincere. There are many contentious points in the policies of the two nations, none of more immediate concern than their current attitudes toward the Egyptian problem.

Britain urges a stiff policy on President Nasser and his pan-Arabic ambitions and his seizure of control of the Suez Canal. But it has recognized too late that armed intervention—at least unsuccessful armed intervention—was not the right procedure. The people of the United States, on the other hand, have belatedly realized that their policy in the Middle East—or more correctly, their lack of policy in that theatre—has not worked. The current Washington plan of conciliating the Arabs, even at the expense of America's real friends, does not appear to offer hope of a workable settlement.

American Suez policy has wavered between reliance on the United Nations, hopes of personal diplomacy on the part of U.N. Secretary General Hammarskjöld, and vague bilateral assurances to Israel. The Eisenhower Doctrine of economic aid and military guarantee to the Middle East does not attempt to meet the pressing emergencies that now confront that part of the globe.

It is perhaps too much to hope that a joint policy will be produced overnight in Bermuda. But it is not too much to hope—in fact there can be no alternative if the free world is not to suffer a disastrous setback—that the two partners will be able to reform ranks and approach the question on a basis of understanding and close co-operation.

Truly, "the whole life and future of the free world" are in the balance. Bermuda, for better or worse, will prove a milestone in history.

Forward Step in Traffic

THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT is entitled to full marks for introducing a new Motor Vehicle Act draughted to conform to a uniform code throughout Canada and to bring regulations up to date.

The bill seems to cover most of the points raised from both sides of the House when this question was fully debated in earlier sessions. It removes certain anomalies from existing regulations, extends broader authority to magistrates in imposing fines, establishes more severe penalties for offences dangerous to public safety and seems to provide the legal framework necessary to curtail bad driving generally.

No legislation, however, will be sufficient in itself. The manner in which it is enforced will determine its ability to promote better driving and reduce accidents.

Beyond that, the extension of broader authority to magistrates—they will have greater opportunity to set penalties according to the circumstances of particular offences—calls for a better understanding of their position than some magistrates have shown recently.

For some time the authorities and the public have noted inequalities in sentences for similar offences in different parts of the province. Far too wide a range has been noted in fines for identical infractions. Frequently offences which drew jail terms in one area have been punished by fines only in others.

Perhaps the next useful step to make the Motor Vehicle Act function as a safety agent would be to call on all magistrates to apply some uniformity in penalties. This is not to suggest any interference with the courts. But it might be wise to remind magistrates that they are all operating under the same rules.

Sense and Censorship

THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT, which rendered a classic judgment on book banning when it admitted into the U.S. James Joyce's "Ulysses," has presented another important judgment on the same general theme.

Recently it ruled that states cannot use laws intended "to shield juvenile innocents" in banning the sale of allegedly obscene books to adults.

The case arose when Michigan authorities fined a bookseller for selling to a police officer a volume which a trial judge said was potentially bad for youth.

Writing the Supreme Court's unanimous judgment, Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter said that Michigan thus sought to protect juveniles. But, he added, "this is to burn the house to roast the pig." The effect of the Michigan law, he said, "is to reduce the adult population of Michigan to reading only what is fit for children."

This is a type of pronouncement so generally lacking in Canada when censorship occurs. In this country the issue never seems to be thoroughly thrashed out. Explanations of book banning wind up in a fog. While certain volumes cannot be imported, presumably because someone thinks them obscene, they are easily available if they are produced in Canada—purified, it seems, by the touch of Canadian hands.

In another field, censorship has taken an odd twist in Victoria. A certain film has been banned, not, according to the explanation, for the subject matter contained in it, but because certain features of the production were over-publicized.

The whole field of censorship here seems ill-defined and fuzzy. The clear statements of distinguished U.S. judges cannot, of course, be applied legally in Canada, because laws are different. The reasoning behind them, however, does make sense to Canadians. Perhaps, at some future date, we may hope for some similar explicit statement that at least seems intelligent. That should be part of Canadians' attainment of maturity.

FOUR SINN FEINERS WERE elected to the Irish Republic's Dail in the polling which returned Eamon de Valera to power.

But the Sinn Feiners, the political arm of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, have announced that they will boycott parliament until the Irish Republic is united politically with northern Ireland, still a part of the United Kingdom.

At this distance it is difficult to appreciate the significance of the boycott, but there is something beautifully "Irish" about the gesture. The four Sinn Feiners represent the people who elected them to parliament by staying away.

The Educated Illiterates

MR. Alfred A. Knopf, the distinguished American publisher, tells us that last year 19,962 books were published in Britain and 12,589 in the United States.

Nevertheless, a large part of the population in both countries is becoming, for the true purposes of reading, illiterate. In the United States only 17 per cent of the people read books. We do better in Canada, where the literate percentage is 31. In Australia it is 35 and in England 55.

I use the word "illiterate" advisedly because, in the proper sense, a man is illiterate if he does not read books. To be sure, he understands the mechanics of interpreting letters on a page into some form of thought, just as most of India's voters, in the recent election, could interpret, on the ballots, the party of their choice by some crude symbol like a sheaf of wheat or a yoke of oxen.

BUT books are different not only in size but in kind from any other kind of printed work. A writer, if he is a genius, like Francis Bacon, for instance, may be able to condense an important thought on a single page or carve it on a cheery stone. There is no such genius writing in our language today. If we wish to explore any important thought, instead of merely sampling it, as one samples a gumdrop, we must go to books. It is only there that any writer has space and leisure enough to develop an idea, whether of fact or fiction.

This, however, is a gumdrop age, which is not prepared to chew the hard protein of thought but must swallow the sweet starches and carbohydrates of myth at one easy gulp.

PEOPLE read voluminously and furiously, engorging large forests every day in the form of newspaper, and this is all very well so far as it goes. It is impossible, indeed, to imagine a free country or parliamentary institutions without an essential diet of information.

Reading of this sort, however valuable, does not make readers, and in America a small fraction of the population actually reads. Which only means that a majority are not educated even if they go to school or college.

No school or college ever educated anybody. This preliminary training can give a man technical skills and it can teach him how to learn, but no more. The education must come afterwards and I cannot conceive how it will come from anything but books, unless a man is a genius and absorbs education by osmosis through his pores.

WE hear a lot these days about the education system, and how it is being improved by modern methods. Yet, in America, it seems to be failing in its final purpose—it is not producing readers.

Mr. Knopf tells us that 57 per cent of American high school graduates and 26 per cent of college graduates have not read a single book in the last year. Five out of six college graduates have not read a serious book outside their own fields of special interest in many months.

All these people have degrees and call themselves educated. Yet when twelve of the best-known classics in the English language were mentioned to an average group of college graduates 9 per cent could not name the author of one of these books, and 39 per cent could not name more than three authors. The average American college man (and no doubt the same is true in Canada) is not a reader; he is a gumdrop swallower.

THINGS are not improving in this respect as our education system ostensibly is improved, at gigantic cost to the taxpayer. On the contrary, the rate of true literacy is falling in America. Only 17 per cent of Americans are reading books today as against 28 per cent in 1937. Gum drops are cheaper now, more widely distributed and sweeter.

In my business a man is constantly assailed, through letter, telephone call and personal interview, by earnest people with ideas on education. I have heard so much from these experts that the word "education" has lost all meaning to me but I listen with respect as an ignorant man.

In nearly all cases, though, I notice that the people who are worrying themselves sick about the condition of our youth do not read books themselves. Most of them are not worried enough about education to touch it with a ten-foot pole.

WHAT the true educationists are trying to do with our children I have no idea. Perhaps they are so desperate and pessimistic about the future of the race that they seek to cram an education into the child while it is still at school or college, as geese are fattened in a narrow cage before the killing.

That is a good way to produce succulent geese for the table. It will produce a skilled but not educated populace; for in the end every man must educate himself alone. Just as his body will be mainly the result of what he eats, his mind will be mainly the result of what he reads. And if he reads no books of protein, it will be a fatty mind, a push-over for all the sweet and shiny confections now offered by various political peddlers as honest nourishment.

What's a Little Discomfort?

Came the Hard Way

Re the U.K. emigrants complaining about overcrowding on the plane bringing them to Canada. They should be ashamed of themselves. Surely it is worth a little discomfort to reach this country—the country that will now be their home.

I came over from Southport, Lancs., England, in 1952. How sad I am no one gave me a plane to come over in. Ten of us, all former wartime and peacetime seamen, sailed a 90-foot fishing boat across from Hull to Halifax.

We left Hull February 22 on an expected 14-day trip. Alas we had a little discomfort and didn't arrive in Halifax until April 4 after fighting Atlantic gales and being ten days without food—and after we'd eaten the rations from the lifeboat.

I'd go through it all over again to reach this country. So look here, you fellow Englishmen, forget the discomfort and be glad you're here safe and sound. Start a new life and lots of luck.

Don't start with a chip on your shoulder and you'll find the Canadians a fine people.

CORPORAL CAPLAN,

Disgusted

I was disgusted to read that some of the British immigrants complained about conditions on the airlift to Canada.

Surely if they could not put up with a little inconvenience for a few hours for a journey at reduced rates and at the costs of which Canadian citizens are contributing (as taxpayers to the federal government) they should have remained in England.

I immigrated to Canada in 1947 and traveled on the very overcrowded Aquitania. I did not complain, however, despite the fact that I paid the full fare. I have since made two trips back to England but Canada is the place for me to live.

Views on the Pension Boost

Absurd and Mean

The government's announcement that it will pay the OAPs an additional $6 per month from July 1, next, would be (if it were not so tragic) the greatest joke of the century so far.

Can anyone imagine anything more absurd—and mean—than a contribution of twenty cents per day to alleviate the dire distress of men and women who have done so much to help build this country to its present prosperous condition? It would be bad enough in times of depression, but in times like the present words fail me to express my disgust.

I would suggest that the voters show their displeasure, at the forthcoming election, by turning the present government out of office so that it may be a warning to future governments not to offer gratuitous insults to the intelligence of the people—who, after all, are still the masters not the servants. The people want something adequate done for their Senior Citizens.

T. FOX-DECENT,
2551 Florence St.

Sob-Sisters

It ill behooves Premier Bennett to scoff at the raise given to the old age security pension by the federal government. One would think he would be ashamed to even pass an opinion after his own government gave no increase but made sure of increasing his own salary to $20,000 a year.

In one breath he brags about the large surplus his government has piled up and at the same time goes hat in hand begging for more from Ottawa. Surely with this large surplus plus all the millions collected from his high taxes, liquor profits, etc., he could have spared a few dollars or could have taken off the 2% tax (a tax all pensioners have to pay).

Probably this tax will stay on until just before the next provincial election and then be used as the $28 rebate to property owners.

These sob sisters crying over poor pensioners and blaming Ottawa, why don't they forget politics and show their sympathy by doing something about it instead of sitting pretty and helping themselves to large increases that they do not earn?

HOUSEWIFE.

Inflationary Trends Increased

Our B.C. premier looks upon the federal budget as a "cheating game" affair while many old age citizens consider it comes short of what actually it should in view of the inflationary costs of goods. My comment would view it another way.

Our elected representatives, whether they be federal, provincial, municipal or what other types we have, hold their position by being considered more intelligent than ordinary citizens but they all seem to be deficient in one important thing, that of perspicacity or keenness of sight or understanding, for these inflationary trends will never be cured, in fact they are further aggravated by these increases where each group is vying with every other group to get more.

So, as an aged retired farmer, I sincerely and earnestly submit that something could have been accomplished by putting a curb on these prices and compelling a reduction.

These increases would have been halted three or four years ago but for the fresh impetus of adding fuel to the fire by our federal representatives boosting their salaries so generously and setting such an example for others to go and do likewise.

FROM LONDON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Last Chance?

THE Bermuda meeting between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan looks like just about the last chance of rebuilding the crumbling foundations of the Western Alliance. "What will they do about Gaza?" everyone will no doubt be asking. But that will not be the real question.

For this Bermuda meeting is not an international gathering of the common sort, at which statesmen gather in the sun, wrestle briefly with the crisis of the moment, effusively assure one another of their mutual affection, and part again after issuing a smooth and empty communique. Or rather, if Bermuda turns out to be this sort of rally, it will be remembered as the last chance that was missed.

What has to be done not to miss the chance? The answer is simple. Critical Areas Detailed and practical agreements must be reached concerning the long-term policies of America and Britain in certain critical areas. Of these areas, the Middle East is now immeasurably the most important. But NATO is another policy area made urgent by Britain's planned reduction of her troop strength in Germany. And there are one or two more.

And why will the last chance probably be lost, if detailed, long-term approaches to these knotty and complex problems are not agreed upon at Bermuda?

Again the answer is relatively simple. The ancient Anglo-American partnership has already fallen upon such evil days, that another failure to reach real agreement will simply impose too heavy a strain.

Of course there will be no open, rapid rupture, if Bermuda merely ends in another meaningless and amiable statement by the two chief conferees. But if this is the only result of Bermuda, the festering feelings of the British will grow still more poisonous. The ugly stories that are everywhere repeated here will be repeated and believed still more widely. And thus the already marked drift away from the old partnership will be accelerated to the point where it can hardly be halted and reversed.

Festering Feelings

That is the danger one finds beneath London's smiling and outwardly prosperous surface.

In part, feelings fester here because the terrible failure at Suez marked an equally terrible turning point in the thinking of many intelligent and courageous English people. Against heavy odds, for nearly 12 years after the Second World War's end, they carried on the struggle to maintain Britain's role as a great world power. But after the Suez failure, they have just about abandoned hope.

"We've been a great power for a very long time," one of them told me. "But now we know we aren't a great power any longer, and we must find a new course."

By no means all of those who have reached this bitter conclusion have also turned against the Anglo-American partnership. But there are some, even of the best, who have turned against it. Some, whose names, if they could be publicly used, would send a thrill of cold horror down the spines of those in Washington who still care about the future of the Western Alliance.

Plain Terms

One such, a much respected senior English leader with close American connections, a man who has always been a strong advocate of the old partnership and one who bitterly criticized Sir Anthony Eden's venture, told this reporter in plain terms:

"I thought we were fools to do what we did at Suez. But now that it's all over, I've been wondering about our relations with America. For instance, I've been asking myself whether your air bases here are of any use to us, whether in fact they serve any purpose except to make us H-bomb targets if a war comes. Perhaps we should now consider a Nehru-like policy of being nice to everybody."

The man who spoke those words will, I think, finally reconsider them. But that will not matter if the present drift continues, if there are more and more causes of Anglo-American disagreement, and if feelings are more and more inflamed thereby.

Grave Warnings

If this happens, here in Britain the wise and the prudent will eventually be overborne by the hot-headed and the self-deluding. Then the partnership will end.

Let anyone think that these warnings are overdrawn, it can be rather positively stated that the American Embassy in London has been sending very grave warnings to the State Department. Indeed, it is an open secret that the new ambassador, John Hay Whitney, was deeply shocked by the state of feelings he found here.

It may well be said, of course, that the United States is better able than Britain to do without the Anglo-American partnership and the Western Alliance.

But if that is what the Eisenhower administration has in mind, then it is the administration's duty to come up with a new American world strategy, not based on the Western Alliance, and including such unpalatable items as a 100 per cent increase in the defence appropriations to provide a 100 per cent self-contained defence system for the United States. (1957, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

The Frog Pond

HE'S 13 years old—a sturdy-looking boy with darkish hair and good strong good looks.

Right now, he's full of the spirit of spring, and spring for him means ponds and frogs' eggs, and wandering in the woods.

He never thinks of time when he is in the woods. The hours slip by and he is utterly absorbed by all there is to see.

Let's follow him for a couple of hours and try to understand his idea of springtime Heaven.

Look, he's left the populated valley with its trim gardens and tidy little houses. Civilization is not for him today. He wants the woods and wildness and a chance to wander by himself.

"I like the country," he says, "because you can get off by yourself and be alone."

He's climbing the wooded ridge. He's not taking the easy path, the one the older people take. He's going straight through the bush because somewhere over the ridge, he's heard, there's a sheltered pond, and in that pond, there will be frogs' eggs.

Look, he's sitting on a log not far from a fence. And, beyond that fence is a shabby-looking woman with two bouncing, barking dogs. She, too, is simply sitting on a log because it's spring and there's so much to see. But she asks the boy if he is lost, and he tells her most politely that he isn't, only could he come over the fence and see if there are any frogs' eggs in the pond.

She, who normally objects to trespassers and is very fierce with them, gives glad permission because she knows that spring and frogs' eggs are important.

Now they're looking in the upper pond where jellied clusters cling to underwater twigs.

From his pocket he pulls a little transparent bag of the kind that bought young carrots come in. It has a tiny hole, however, and all the water comes spouting out.

"Never mind," says the woman. "Let's go down to the lower pond and I'll fetch a jar or a tin from the house. And a piece of cake, too, because I don't know how you are feeling, but I am getting hungry."

The lower pond is quiet and lovely in the sunshine. The gentle mallards fly away at the approach of humans, and all the frogs stop singing.

But there are eggs by the hundreds, and everywhere on the ground there are little frogs. Some are brownish, some are green and some have a darkish patch on the throat.

It's muddy underfoot and slippery. But neither of the springtime wanderers care. They're talking frogs, with the woman wondering whether the boy's stream of information is correct. He talks about biology and the Junior Natural History Club, and films they show down at the museum. He talks about the frogs in one of Walt Disney's True-Life Adventures.

He says that being a biologist is fun because you can enjoy yourself and still be on the job!

At that point he breaks off because, trying to catch a frog, he's found a salamander. "If that isn't the climax to a perfect day," he exclaims with a spontaneous joy that simply delights the woman.

"I'd like to take him home," he says. "But I guess he'd be happier staying here." "It would be a pity to keep him prisoner," agrees the woman. "Like shooting animals if you don't need the meat."

"Like the buffalo," he says. And they don't need to say any more, since they obviously talk the same language.

I guess kids like these are few and far between. But they still exist. And I'm delighted that they do.

Maybe that boy will come to nothing much. Maybe his dreams of biology will fade away. Maybe he'll be trampled down in the rat race. But, maybe, one day he'll grow up to be a fine man and pass his knowledge and enthusiasm on to another generation.

Yes, spring is a time of hope.

Meantime, let's make sure that we keep some natural unspoiled places near our cities so that the "biologists" of the future may have their childhood chance to wander and dream their springtime dreams.

Top Quality Roses Best for Beginners

We seldom hear of complete failure with roses, but beginners frequently encounter difficulties which cause them to give up in disgust.

Of prime importance is to begin with first quality bushes. Seconds may eventually thrive in the hands of an experienced rosarian, but they are not for the beginner. Even the small saving in price seldom warrants the extra coddling they require.

The local rose growers and nurserymen can be the beginner's best friends. Through experience they know the varieties suited to our conditions and those most likely to succeed in the hands of an amateur.

Beginners tend to look on the size of the bush as an indication of its value, when the roots are a more important yardstick. Plenty of small fibres are more desirable than a few heavy roots devoid of branchlets.

The number of canes is also misleading. Two strong canes pruned to between six and twelve inches in length will give a vigorous plant with good flowers. Although five to seven smaller canes, eighteen inches in length, appears more for the money, success with them will not be so easily obtained.

Breaking or cutting off, one inch from the end of the canes will indicate the condition of the plant, and this is especially necessary since the introduction of the waxing process designed to retain moisture in bushes packaged for counter sales.

Dead or damaged tissue is brittle and brown in color, while healthy canes are flexible and clear white in the centre.

Alcohol Dominates Canada Dean Cecil Swanson Claims

(FROM CP DISPATCHES)

VANCOUVER—Canada is becoming "a pretty alcohol-dominated society," says Archdeacon Cecil Swanson of Toronto.

And the 68-year-old Anglican rector of St. Paul's said he does not know the answer.

Alcoholism increased 178 per cent in Ontario last year, he said in an interview Wednesday.

"I suppose it must lead to a breakdown of morals of the country," he said. "It's hard to keep an even keel when you start talking about drinking. I've never seen one person benefit from it but I've seen thousands suffer."

Dr. Swanson, former dean of Christ Church here, was a member in 1953 of the three-man B.C. Liquor Inquiry Board which recommended changes that resulted in cocktail bars for the province.

LOST PLANE 'GRID SEARCH'

VANCOUVER—Trans-Canada Air Lines said Wednesday it will make a helicopter "grid search" this spring in an all-out attempt to locate its missing North Star. The plane vanished last December with 62 persons aboard.

BOYCOTT OFF-DUTY WORK

VANCOUVER—A second vote by the Vancouver secondary school teachers' association to boycott extra curricular activities passed "with a large majority" here Wednesday.

The teachers voted for the boycott earlier Wednesday as a lever in negotiations for better wages and working conditions.

B.C. Farm Costs Under Study Here Friday

Parley Called By Government

A conference called by the government will be held in Victoria Friday to study B.C. farm production costs.

It was decided upon as a result of representations by the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, which claims production cost on a B.C. farm equals 64 per cent of gross income, as compared to the national average of only 38 per cent.

A steering committee will be formed to draw up terms of reference for further study. On the committee will be the deputy agriculture minister, provincial markets commissioner, agriculture department economists, Dean Elythe Eagles and Dr. Walt Anderson, UBC; Dr. Mills Clarke, superintendent of the Agassiz experimental farm; E. D. Woodward, federal agricultural economist; W. H. Ozard, VLA superintendent in B.C.; and C. E. S. Walls, secretary-manager, B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

Students' Work Display Marks Sooke Meeting

SOKE—Students of Milnes Landing High School gave demonstrations in manual arts and home economics at the March meeting of the Sooke-Milnes Landing PTA.

J. Jupp and Mrs. P. Jenner, teachers of manual arts and home economics at the school, preceded the demonstrations with outlines of their respective subjects.

Members went to the workshop, where they viewed the tools and watched the boys perform their tasks. Later the girls displayed their skills in the home-cooking and sewing rooms.

Following the demonstrations the girls prepared and served refreshments.

Jack Keating presided at the meeting.

Rural Area Survey By Phone Company

A comprehensive survey of the Albion, Belmont and Colquitz exchanges near Victoria to determine telephone requirements for the next 20 years is under way by the B.C. Telephone Company.

A four-man field team is compiling on-the-spot information. It is composed of L. D. Davis, W. W. Herod and W. S. Edgett of Vancouver, and J. A. Murray, Victoria, all of the company's commercial engineering staff.

Accurate data to be collected includes present number of families, firms and institutions, number of vacant premises, amount of available land for residential development, extent of new construction, and other pertinent facts about the area.

Company officials report that all information gathered through interviews with civic officials and some businessmen and contractors will be kept "strictly confidential."

At least two months will be required to sift and analyze the data collected.

The final "commercial survey" report to contain maps and graphs depicting the future trend in the areas and population growth, will enable engineers to formulate expansion plans to meet anticipated telephone demands.

HOODLUMS ATTACK SCHOOL INSTRUCTOR

NANAIMO—Jack Southern, a supervisor at Brannan Lake School, was attacked by four youths in Chinatown early Tuesday morning and required treatment in Nanaimo General Hospital.

Police say he was hit from behind as he unlocked his car door, then was pinned to the ground and kicked. He is a sea cadet instructor, and was wearing his uniform at the time.

His attackers fled before police arrived on the scene. No arrest has been made.

Working Mother Lowers Tone Of Her Home, Says Teacher

ALBERNI—Alberni District High School teacher T. H. Pidcock told Tuesday night the working mother lowers the tone of her home far more than she realizes.

"Whatever else we might think, the mother sets the tone of the home," he said. "If she is absent day after day that tone is lowered."

She may be earning money to "pay Paul," but just who is she robbing to make these payments? "Without her presence something goes out of the home and family life," he said.

Alberni Businessmen Protest Garbage Rates

ALBERNI—A delegation of businessmen wants Alberni council to "take a second look" at the increased garbage rates of this year.

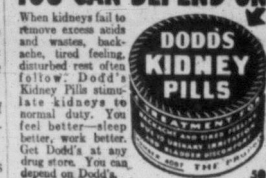

They told acting mayor George McRae that with rate increases of more than 100 per cent, they felt they were subsidizing home owners.

"It isn't that we have any objection to the home owners' rate," the spokesman for the group said. "It's just that we don't think it fair that businessmen should be expected to subsidize house collections, and that's just what we are doing at the present time."

Several examples were cited of changes having doubled after recent garbage rate changes.

One reason for the hike in rates was stated to be a "too low" levy

Wenner-Gren North Surveys To Stay Private

Results of surveys by the Wenner-Gren interests will not be made available to other firms interested in establishing industries in the Rocky Mountain Trench area of northern B.C.

This was made clear by Lands Minister Ray Williston Wednesday as he answered questions in the legislature on the plan.

Mr. Williston said Wenner-Gren, who has undertaken to spend $5,000,000 on surveys in the next two years, would submit the findings to the government as the basis for his application for forest, mineral or hydro rights in the area.

"We don't make any private surveys public," the minister said.

Eventually, he said, the Wenner-Gren surveys combined with government surveys will "build up an inventory which becomes available to all."

George Gregory (Lib.-Victoria) said that "if only one man knows what's there you can't have competitive bidding."

Mr. Gregory claimed that if the Wenner-Gren surveys are not made public before the resources are alienated, "there's no point in releasing them—they're just statistics."

Mr. Williston replied that there's "nothing to stop anyone else going in now and making surveys."

The issue came up during discussion of the salary vote of the minister of lands and forests in the budget estimates.

The memorandum of intention signed by Wenner-Gren with the government last November stated the Swedish firm would apply for forestry rights to set up a pulp mill.

Mineral surveys are not included in the agreement, Mr. Williston said.

Apart from the narrow strip of land reserved up the centre of the trench for the proposed railroad, anyone can go into the 90,000-square mile area involved and carry out mineral surveys, he said.

"There is a moral obligation and general understanding in this matter," he said.

This was a principle already established by provincial and federal governments on hydro surveys.

Timber surveys will be turned over by Wenner-Gren to the government before any forestry rights are granted, the minister said.

Answering a question by Mr. Gregory, the minister said water power surveys completed by Wenner-Gren would be turned over to the provincial water rights branch.

"They will not be made available to other companies during the period of investigation," Mr. Williston said.

Jubilee Plans Major Expansion In Nurses' Training Facilities

Directors of Royal Jubilee Hospital plan to extend its nurses' training facilities to accommodate a maximum of 250 trainees following construction of a proposed $1,800,000 new wing.

It was learned following the hospital's annual meeting Wednesday, the new 140-bed wing also will mean about 50 more nurses will be required on staff.

Long range plans are for an addition to the existing nurses' residence on Richmond Road.

But the first phase of the expansion in training facilities likely will mean the former nurses' residence, now used as an office annex, and classrooms for cerebral palsy patients, again will be used for dormitories.

The hospital nursing school now trains about 160 girls.

Board chairman F. G. Mulliner referred to the expansion plan in his annual report. He pointed out that career opportunities for girls now in junior high schools will be greatly increased following construction of the new hospital wing.

$81,780 DEFICIT
Honorary treasurer J. C. Thow announced an operational deficit of $81,780 (reduced to $36,134 by non-BCHIS income) as compared to a deficit of $100,128 (net $32,776) in 1955.

He said he hoped the loss would be reduced by provincial grants. Last year the BCHIS made an allotment of $42,000 to reduce the operational loss.

A balance of working capital of $85,205 was reported. Last year 11,068 patients were admitted (400 more than in 1955) to the hospital and 12,997 were given emergency ward treatment. Staff now total 658 employees besides the trainees in the nursing school.

Salaries were not increased last year but total expenditures were increased by about $82,000, a 3-per cent increase over 1955, the same percentage as the increase in patients admitted.

CONCILIATION
The hospital is bargaining with 446 employees other than nurses, and a conciliation board will meet with representatives of the union and the hospital on Monday.

There were no elections held at the annual meeting as officers were appointed last year for two-year terms.

Appointees to the board were J. Courtney Haddock and Ian Horne as provincial government representatives, F. G. Mulliner and Lloyd McKenzie as city representatives.

representatives. Reeve Arthur Ash represents Saanich, Reeve A. C. Wurtele, Esquimalt, and Oak Bay has yet to name a successor on the board for P. A. Moir, who died this month.

TOP NURSE SPEAKS
Speaker featured at the meeting was director of nursing at the hospital, Miss M. L. Richmond, B.N., M.A., R.N., Miss Richmond, who assumed the top nursing post on the retirement of Miss L. P. Woodrow, R.N., last year, described a year's training undergone recently at Teachers' College, a branch of University of Columbia in New York.

She told of living at International House where students from all over the world reside while taking special courses, many of them under UN sponsorship. She described her visits to many of New York's most famous churches adding a humorous account of Father Divine's Tabernacle.

TOUGH WINTER

Hungry Gulls Eat Caulking

VANCOUVER (CP)—It was a mean winter for seagulls hereabouts, so bad they took to eating building material.

Apartment dwellers in a posh West End block complained that water was leaking in through the aluminum-framed windows.

Contractors checked the frames and inserted caulking compound, but still complaints came in.

A sharp-eyed resident discovered why the leak persisted.

Gabriola Ferry Terminus Site Proves Mystery

NANAIMO (CP)—With the completion of the new Gabriola ferry slip slated for mid-May the island residents are concerned about the location of a possible new site for the Nanaimo end of the ferry run.

It is believed the Nanaimo terminus may be moved from its present location on the CPR wharf to another point in the harbor.

A $125,000 hotel now is well on the way towards completion on the northeast point of Gabriola Island. The hotel is being built by Len Dobinson, who says an 18-hole golf course is also planned.

Labor Council Knocks New Municipal Act

Two sections of the new Municipal Act were lambasted by the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday.

Delegates agreed that five years' residence should be a qualification to run for municipal office, regardless of property qualifications, and that police commissioners should be elected rather than appointed.

Ed Haw, of the IWA, said police commissioners should be elected as "the responsibility of the people. I can't understand how the government recommended otherwise."

The labor council will make recommendations to the government before the end of the current legislative session.

The VLC legislative committee will study the proposed freeing of private school property from taxes.

SHOULD PAY

"If people want separate schools of any kind they should pay for them," said Strong-Boag, Yarrow. Most delegates concurred.

Union representatives favored institution of the Faustman one-way plan to eliminate the Fountain Circle traffic bottleneck.

Finance Minister Walter Harris, in a reply to a council letter asking that more mortgage money be made available for home construction, replied "the problem of housing is receiving more consideration."

He said a reduction of interest rates would reduce the amounts of mortgage money now available.

Council endorsed a letter from William Black, president of the hospital employment, in which he proposed to contact Health Minister Eric Martin protesting the so-called "freeze order" on hospital wages.

PATIENTS FIRST
Mr. Raymond pointed out that employees feel that the patients come first, that Mr. Martin knows this, and thinks they won't strike for this reason.

An extensive brochure which pointed out hospital employee status was given each delegate. It said in part regarding wages: "Before our provincial government goes on the rampage, pointing its finger at the tight money policy of Ottawa, let them clean up their own back yard."

"Let them remove the blight from their own provincial affairs by an easement of the government's tight money policy directed at the acute general hospitals in B.C."

An auditorium as a centennial project was endorsed. A committee will be struck to interview the Chamber of Commerce and the city.

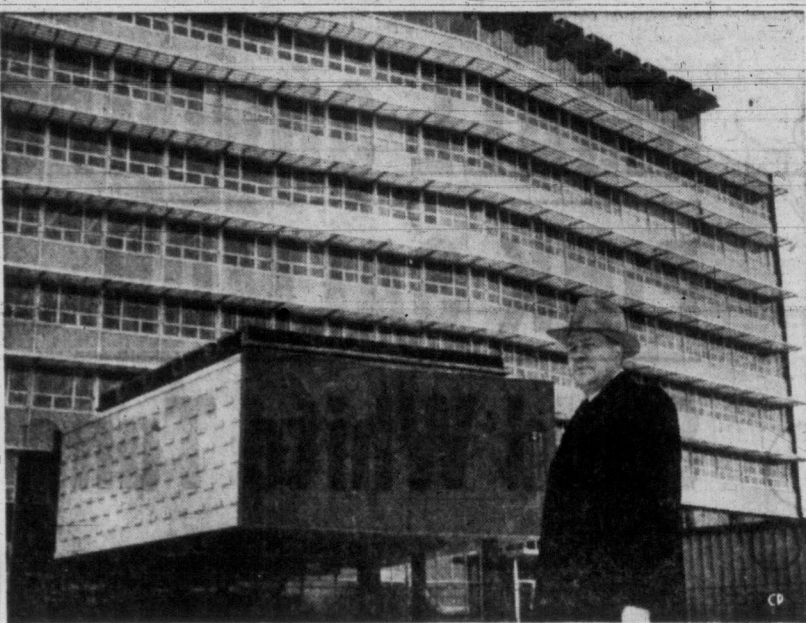

Law to Extend BCHIS To Chronic Cases

Legislation to include active chronic care treatment under B.C. Hospital Insurance was given first reading in the legislature Wednesday.

The amendment broadens the definition of "hospital" under the act to include rehabilitation, convalescent and chronic hospitals.

WRONG ADDRESS

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Alexander J. Gynnannritz of Bridgeport, Conn., was adjudged bankrupt in district court Wednesday. He lives at 168 Success Avenue.

NEW CITY HALL in Edmonton was already paid for before the staff moved in. Mayor W. Hawrelak stands before the $3,500,000 structure which took two years to build. Of modern architecture, with emphasis on glass, the pride of the oil metropolis was paid for out of a fund started 20 years ago.

'No Cause to Question' Forest Licensing by Sommers CCF Told

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said Wednesday he has had "no cause to question" the issuance of any forest management licence by his predecessor, R. E. Sommers.

He was answering a question by Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) whether the government had made a review of these licences as a result of the allegations against Mr. Sommers, and the "conspiracy" charges made by the former minister when he resigned from the cabinet last session.

Mr. Williston said there has been nothing to "raise any doubt in my own mind" about previously-issued management licences.

George Gregory (Lib-Victoria) rose on a point of order and stated the minister was commenting on a matter which had previously been ruled out of order by Speaker Thomas Irwin because it is before the courts.

"If the government can discuss it then other members of the House should be allowed to do so," Mr. Gregory said.

Mr. Williston said he would drop the subject and went on to another topic.

Suicide Victims Fussy Over Seasons

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A psychiatrist says more people kill themselves in the spring than in any other season. Dr. Louis J. West of Oklahoma City told a clinical society Wednesday night that the symptoms of spring fever which bring a feeling of well being to most persons have exactly the opposite effect on acutely depressed persons, making them feel more discouraged than ever.

Review of E and N Land Grants Sought

Esquimalt MLA Herbert Bruch called Wednesday for a review of the E and N railway land grants.

He charged that the CPR-owned railroad was "continually whittling away at its service" and urged Lands Minister Ray Williston to raise the matter with the federal government.

"Either they should carry out their stipulated service or give up some of their land grants and privileges," the government member said.

Mr. Williston said he would "accept" the suggestion.

Land and financial subsidies were given to the CPR in 1884 to encourage construction of the Vancouver Island line. The land, including mineral and timber rights, was turned over by B.C. to the federal government, who made the agreement.

Mr. Bruch said the railway company had agreed to provide certain services and now appeared to be "backing down on their share of it."

Meanwhile, the government introduced legislation Thursday that will make Crown-granted mineral claims on E and N land subject to provincial taxation when they are alienated by the company.

Watch Out for Hibberson--He's Been Practising Again

Around local golfing circles they'll tell you that Eric Hibberson, when he takes time to practice, is just about the toughest tournament competitor in these parts.

However, Eric also enjoys other sports and sometimes leaves his golf clubs in the locker for long periods, which is hardly the recommended formula for a champion golfer. But, with his natural talent, it usually takes only a few practice rounds before a tournament to start the whisper, "watch Hibberson."

He can belt the ball a country mile off the tee and there are no flaws in his short game that can't be brushed off with a few weeks' work. Accordingly, it wasn't surprising when Eric dug his golf clubs out of the locker a couple of weeks ago after a winter of badminton, that the whisper started up again. For the qualifying round of the Daily Times Vancouver Island Match Play Open Championships is scheduled at Gorge Vale March 31.

There isn't much time to iron all the kinks out of his swing before the first major tournament of the season rolls around but, for Hibberson, it may be enough.

The sweet swinger from Uplands polished up his game quickly enough to win the first Island Open in 1950 and to become the only two-time winner of the event in 1954. This time he'll be shooting for a record third title.

Hibberson has nailed down several other crowns in his golfing career, including the city championship, two open titles in the Empress Hotel tournament and several club titles.

When he starts shooting for that third title, at least three other former champions will be blocking his way.

Qualifying round (18 holes) at Gorge Vale, March 31.

Among the more than 50 entries received to date by Leo Derman, Gorge Vale, secretary, are those from 1955 winner Bill McColl of Colwood, Bob Morrison, who took the open crown at Uplands in 1953, and Colwood's Laurie Kerr, who has indicated he will defend the title. he won last year.

Other former winners are Bob Fleming, 1951, and Ted Colgate, the 1952 champion.

Among the top-flight swingers back for another try are big Vince Clarkson, who lost to Kerr in last year's final, George Bigelow, Vic Painter and John Merriman, the three-handicapper from Gorge Vale.

Following the qualifying round March 31, the first round of match play will be at Uplands, April 7. The second round is slated at Victoria Golf Club the following week and quarter-finals will be at Colwood, April 22. The 36-hole semi-finals will be at Gorge Vale, April 28, and the 36-hole final goes at Uplands, May 5.

Speed at which the entry list, restricted to the first 120 received, is filling up indicates that some tardy golfers will miss a spot in the tournament.

To enter, complete the entry form found on this page and mail it, along with $3, to Leo Derman, Gorge Vale Golf Club. Entries will close when the list is filled or on March 28.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

Current efforts to revive racing at the old Colwood track received a nostalgic shot in the arm when Willie Molter sailed into town this week on a fishing trip in the company of world champion jockey Johnny Longden.

Molter, for years now one of the leading trainers in California, would like to see those efforts brought to fruition.

He has a soft spot in his heart for the old mile course set against a pastoral background.

Thirty-three years and about 60 pounds of avoidupois ago, Willie Molter was a slim, young and doubtless hungry jockey who could make weight at about 105 pounds if he had to.

And the day the track opened to write a new chapter into Victoria's sporting history Willie Molter June 18, 1924, rode the winner of the first race.

His mount was Vodka and Willie brought him home by 2½ lengths to return a pay-off of $4.20.

He had only two other mounts and scored again with one of them, Smart Alex in a mild upset at better than eight to one. His third horse ran last.

A check of the form charts for that half-remembered summer's meeting showed Molter brought his full share of winners home.

He continued to ride around B.C. tracks for another two years before going on to bigger things in the south where he finally settled.

But he's glad to be back in B.C. for a while and proud to remember his success, even if his mounts could have been claimed for $300 and could win a top purse of only $350.

Please do not throw stones of argument through my windows or march on my office in protest. But I have selected my Western Hockey League all-star team.

It is in times such as this when one wishes one carried a hod or fitted pipes for a living. Any job seems better than the task of picking through four teams-full of hockey players to select the best six. However, here are the nominations that I sent into league headquarters.

Starting in goal, I had to go with Marcel Pelletier. He had a couple of bad games near the end of the season but over the 68 games the Cougars have played, Pelletier has kept them in contention time and time again.

Pelletier is the best. Please do not argue. On defence, give me Gordy Sinclair of the Seattle Americans and Bill Davidson of the Cougars.

Sinclair is a smoothie. He is a flawless skater, a clever checker and is the best defender I have seen this season for moving the puck out of his own zone. In addition, he is the highest scoring defenceman in the western circuit.

Davidson's only fault is that he is not spectacular and has been taken for granted by local fans in his years with the Cougars. But a guy by the name of Guyle Fielder told me last week, "The hardest defenceman in this league to get around is Bill Davidson. He's always there and he always gets a piece of you. If he didn't have those bad feet, there's no telling how good he could be."

Up front, you have to have Guyle Fielder at centre. Those 120 points make a loud argument.

For his wingers, I go for Ray Kinasewich on the right side and Colin Kilburn on the left.

Kinasewich, an Edmonton castoff, has blossomed out as the best goal-scoring in either division. Give him the puck. Ray will put it in the net. Give me Ray, I will put him on my all-star team.

Kilburn has not been at his best this season simply because of over-work and too many extra worries. But he has been the heart of the Cougar club, is their top scorer and still can beat you more ways than any other player in the league. He belongs.

My Most Valuable Player selection was easy—Fielder again.

My vote for the outstanding rookie went to New Westminster's bleach-mopped forward, Denny Olson, who should finish the season with about 25 goals.

Five Rinks in Line For Grand Challenge

A short day but a gay one was the theme Wednesday at the Victoria Curling Club bonspiel as only five draws were held and curlers took the evening off for sociability, which included a smorgasbord, prepared by the ladies of the host club, and a dance.

The games that were played served to narrow down the race to the Grand Challenge Trophy and leave Kerr (Army), Wilson (Vic), Valleau (Dun), Paul (PA), Millham (Van) and Walls (Vic) in the 8's.

Only five rinks remain undefeated in competition for Grand Aggregate award with four rinks being set down in Wednesday play.

Three rinks, Ed Valleau, Alf Millham and Ed Wilson are tied with five wins each, closely followed by Laurie Perlette and Harry Spottiswood with four wins to their credit.

Tertiary events get the nod in today's play with five rinks already in the 16's and the remainder in the 32's. All rinks are down to the 16's in secondary events and the draw committee hopes to have the events down to semi-finals by Friday night.

Three Victoria rinks were knocked out of the Grand Challenge "A" event in close games with Walter dropping a 9-5 decision to Kerr; Moysey losing out 7-5 to Millham and Paul of Port Alberni taking a one-rock 9-8 game from Max Zabel.

Vikings Go Bob-ing to Hoop Lead

Tomlinson Leads Win Over Imperials

By TOM ENGLISH (Vikings Team Captain)

WINNIPEG — As far as Victoria College Vikings are concerned, Bob Tomlinson never played a better basketball game than he did Wednesday night.

Not only did he toss in seven field goals and connect on nine out of 11 free throws to account for 23 points as he led us to a 71-55 victory over Winnipeg Imperials, but he also checked big Ed Melnyk to a standstill.

Melnyk scored 22 points as the Imperials won the first game of the Western Canada Junior basketball final, 71-64, and 21 when we evened the best-of-seven series with a 68-61 victory Tuesday.

In Wednesday night, Tomlinson's checking held Melnyk to 12 points and took a lot of sting out of the Imperial attack.

But even with Melnyk under control, it was still close until the final four minutes, when they started to foul us deliberately in attempts to get possession of the ball.

Fortunately, we weren't missing many of our free shots and were able to run up a comfortable 16-point margin before the final whistle.

Imperials started out with a zone defence but we followed orders from coach Bill Garner and were able to hit a good percentage of shots from well out and they switched back to a man-to-man defence after 10 minutes.

Waldo Skillings hooped 10 of his 17 points in that first 10 minutes and we reached the half with a 34-31 lead. Although we never lost the lead, we didn't feel very safe until we started to pull away in the last four minutes.

Ken Hartas, who had scored 30 points in the first two games, paced the Imperials with 14 points while Melnyk and McKenzie each scored 12.

I was able to add 18 points to our total. McCulloch had eight, and Ed Kowalyk and Art Chiko fired three and two, respectively.

We have improved in each of our three games here and we think we can finish this series in the fourth game tonight and go on to the Canadian Final against Toronto YMHA, who defeated Moncton Cy-Hi, 92-63 and 147-73, in the eastern final.

AN UNFAMILIAR POSE

Seattle Americans' great centre Guyle Fielder Wednesday night broke the professional hockey scoring record when he pushed his scoring total to 120 points. Rival coaches, who are loud in their praise of the shifty Fielder, only wish he would assume this pose more often—sitting down on the players' bench—the only spot in the rink from which he can't score points.

CENTENNIAL SERIES SOUGHT

Rocks Aim High --Two Mann Cups

Adding up the unbridled optimism of the Victoria Shamrocks and an announcement by Intercity Lacrosse League commissioner Ed Popham Sr., the sum total is the hope that two Mann Cup lacrosse championships will be played in Victoria in the next two years.

The factors leading to this rather impulsive conclusion, following a Wednesday night Shamrock dinner, were:

(a) The prediction by Rock coach Whitey Severson that, "barring injuries, we can't miss."

(b) Disclosure by Popham that the Intercity League is attempting to have the 1958 Mann Cup series played in the west in conjunction with B.C.'s centennial celebrations. On the annual rotation of the series the 1957 Canadian final is scheduled for the west but western officials are attempting to have the series held in B.C. in both years.

Even though the lacrosse season is far enough away that the Shamrocks will get together for the first time tonight, in their initial practice session, Severson is enthusiastic over the prospects of the Rocks returning the Mann Cup to Victoria.

He said that in addition to the already announced new acquisitions, Jack Bionda, Don Sherry, Bob Dobbie and Don Gear, the team has a line on two other players, one of them a forward and the other a utility player who could be converted into a first-class defenceman.

HAMMER-TOSSING HAL WINS BATTLE OF LOVE

PRAGUE (Reuters)—Czechoslovakia today granted Olympic champion Olga Fikotova permission to marry American athlete Harold Connolly and settle in the United States.

Connolly, Olympic hammer-throw champion and a high school teacher from Boston, was in Prague earlier this month attempting to win permission for the marriage. He had to leave when his visa expired.

He and Olga, a national heroine here since she won the discus title at last year's games, fell in love while at the Olympics at Melbourne.

FRASER IN PREP FINALE

Ian's Sneakers Log 1,300 Miles

By IAN SMITH

Ian Fraser is not the muscular type. In fact, his five-foot seven-inch frame will probably be lost in the field of cross-country runners that will line up for the Canadian Legion five-mile race at Victoria High School Friday at 3.45.

But watch for Ian at the end of the grind—that's when he's noticeable.

Because he's always in front. And watch the slim runner especially on Friday. It's the last cross country race he'll ever run under the colors of Victoria High School.

"This one's for Mr. Gordon Hartley," he said, as he bent down to tie the laces on his battered cross-country shoes before the last practice of the year on Wednesday.

CREDITS COACH

"Mr. Hartley's the one who deserves the credit," he says. "Nobody could ever hope for a better coach. He's the guy that gets us out every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, whether we want to at the time or not."

"He's the whole story as far as I'm concerned."

But Ian is being a little modest for while coach Hartley provided the inspiration and training, it was the slim runner's own grit and determination that brought him 11 victories this season. He finished out of first place only once. In the Pacific Northwest championships at the University of British Columbia last November.

And, typically, Ian chooses his one defeat upon which to elaborate.

"Usually I get butterflies in my stomach before a race, and I can't eat too much for breakfast."

"But Mr. Hartley always tells us to eat a little, so we have some scrambled eggs. This time I must have been hungry because I ate too much and got an awful stitch halfway through the race and had to walk part of the way."

"I finished seventh."

But what Ian didn't mention was the fact that he was leading the field at the time the cramp put him out of contention, and that the runners he was leading were his seniors by at least three years.

OFFERED SCHOLARSHIP

So impressive was his performance, even in losing, that Mr. H. Heisterman, track director for the University of Washington, offered him a five-year athletic scholarship in architecture in return for his services.

And this was at his worst!

"Definitely the B.C. championships held at Vic High on March 2."

"That fellow from John Oliver and Ian shakes his head at the memory. "He gave me a battle. I thought the race was in the bag, and then suddenly he's right there at my elbow."

"I still wonder where I got the energy for that final sprint. I guess it came from being scared."

He looked down at his shoes. "You know, it's sort of a good thing this will be my last cross country run; these runners couldn't take much more punishment."

"I figured it out once. I've done about 1,300 hundred miles in these same shoes since grade 10."

"They'll get a little more wear, though, before the year's out. Regular cross country practice."

IAN FRASER

ties end this week, but after I finish studying for the Easter exams I'll turn out for track."

He scuffed at the cinders on the track.

"I sure hope the old shoes hold out," he said once more.

Shambrook Rugby Hero For Vic High

Victoria High School's Jack Shambrook kicked the convert that led his team to an 8-5 come-from-behind victory over Oak Bay in senior "B" inter-high rugby at Carverton Park Wednesday.

After a scoreless first half, Oak Bay went into the lead when John Hicks and Bill Baker fell on the ball over the Victoria line and Roger Hollick split the uprights to make the score 5-0.

Derek Stone of Vic High, re-gained part of the score when he charged over the line for a try but the conversion failed and the Bays maintained their lead.

Final and winning score of the game came with only five minutes remaining. Frank Coburn carried the ball over and Shambrook made the kick good.

Skiers Discover Filling 'Tubs' Tedious Business

By A. SITZMARK

Twenty skiers who went in to Mount Brenton last weekend, were pleasantly surprised to find three feet of snow had fallen on the slopes during the week.

With Sunday's weather bright and sunny, some of the best skiing of the season was enjoyed by members of the Victoria Ski Club when the snow became mushy in the afternoon.

Stu Macleod had the new ski tow running smoothly while Maureen Macleod led Brian Saunders, Lee Pike, Betty Brown and Denny Coverdale through the blazon course.

Nora Larsen and Frank Battistello discovered that soft snow makes falling almost pleasant, but that filling in the resulting "bathtubs" is a tedious business.

Larsen's First Start Anything But Perfect

By United Press

Don Larsen has made his long-awaited spring debut as a model of deportment for the New York Yankees and the unanimous verdict is that he never looked worse.

In fact, the Cincinnati Redlegs made the World Series "perfect game" hero look like nothing more than a perfect batting practice pitcher as they routed the Yankees, 20-6, Wednesday with a barrage of 25 hits. Larsen, pitching for the first time since his Oct. 8 epic against the Brooklyn Dodgers, retired the first two batters he faced but then was socked for five runs and six hits before retiring after three innings.

The Redlegs went on from that point to batter rookies Al Cicotte and Jack Urban with an attack good for 43 total bases and hand the Yankees what is believed to be their worst grapefruit league loss since 1925.

George Crowe, Jerry Lynch and Smokey Burgess collected a homer and triple each and Don Hoak also weighed in with a triple.

The Boston Red Sox, who couldn't buy a run in the early days of Grapefruit League competition, went on their third straight scoring rampage when they downed the Chicago White Sox, 9-4.

Clem Labine, Bob Darnell and rookie Rene Valdes turned in a nifty four-hitter as the Brooklyn Dodgers scored a 21, 11-inning victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Catcher Hobie Landrith dropped a throw at the plate to let pinch-runner John Roseboro score the winning run.

Harvey Kuenn and Charley Lau knocked in two runs each to lead the Detroit Tigers to an 8-4 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Ritchie Ashburn's bloop single knocked in two eighth-inning runs to lift Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-4 win over the Washington Senators and the Milwaukee Braves squared their spring record at 6-6 with a 3-2 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

DUKE BEACH, Fla. (NEA)—Deke Snider last season set an all-time National League record by drawing 26 intentional bases on balls.

Wally Post broke Larsen's spell of 27½ perfect innings when his long drive eluded left-fielder Woody Held for a double. Crowe followed with his homer to make the score 2-0 and then a triple by Lynch and Burgess' single made it 3-0. Two walks and Crowe's triple made it 5-0 in the second inning and from then on it was a rout.

forth and, with 15 minutes to go in the second half, Rossland had scored a pair of goals.

"This is it," said Lester to his teammate. "I'm fresh. The rest of the gang are tired out. Feed me the puck."

KEPT PUCK

For the remainder of the game the Rossland fans, who thought Lester was afraid to venture into their end of the rink, gave a display of stick handling that forced them to clap their hands in admiration. Time after time he stickhandled his way through the entire Rossland team. He kept possession of the puck most of the time. He scored two goals all by himself and set up the other two which gave Nelson a 4-2 win.

"It was wonderful. I think it was my greatest game," comments Lester.

The following season Lester and the Patrick family helped build a new arena in Nelson, which had an ice surface 180 feet long. It was opened in great style with the Edmonton Stanley Cup challengers opposing Nelson, as a result of a promise made to Lester.

It's a bizarre story. Edmonton, as ambitious as now, had gathered a few good hockey players together and had decided to challenge for the Stanley Cup. In those days, teams could pick up players anywhere to fill their roster. They knew about Lester's rating and despatched a wire to him, offering him a berth.

Lester got permission from his father to go east but on the understanding that he took money only for his expenses. Father Patrick had no use for professionalism, then.

Lester joined the Edmonton club in Winnipeg. It was the first time he had seen any of the players.

The series was in Montreal with Lester's old club, the Wanderers, his opponents. The fact that Edmonton lost doesn't matter, except for the aftermath. That was Lester's expenses and the promise made to him by Edmonton officials that, if he played for them, they would play the opening game in Nelson's new rink.

The expense account was immediately reviewed by Father Patrick on Lester's return.

"How much did you get?" asked Father.

"One hundred dollars," replied Lester.

"Was that too much or too little?" asked Father.

"It's a bizarre story. Edmon-

When Lester hesitated his father said: "You're good at figures so figure that one out."

That was a tough one.

"You know," Lester told me. "I figured it out every way and the most I could get was $63. You see, they paid my transportation and hotel bills. The expenses otherwise were minor ones."

UNIQUE

Lester gave his father the accounting he wanted.

"All right, write a cheque for the difference, $37, and send it back to Edmonton," commanded Father Patrick.

"I'll bet I'm the only hockey player in the world who ever returned money to a club after he got his hands on it," mused Lester.

A quiet season in the lumber business got Lester a golden opportunity in 1909-10 and, converted Father Patrick over to the value of professionalism.

The Renfrew Millionaires were after the Stanley Cup and they wired Lester an offer of $3,000 for ten games, with transportation both ways. The prevailing salaries for hockey players, then, was from $1,500 to $1,800.

Lester's brother Frank had just graduated from McGill University and was back in the family fold when the offer arrived.

"See if you can get me a job, too," commented Frank, who was a four-letter man at McGill and a rugged hockey player. "If you can get $3,000 get me $2,000 for me."

Lester wired acceptance with the veiled suggestion that he bring along "the best defense man in the world for $2,000."

"Bring him along," came the quick reply.

"That made us a the Five-Thousand Dollar Team," says Lester with a smile. "It was a lot of money in those days."

But Renfrew didn't win the Stanley Cup.

POWER BOARD'S VIEW

New Hydro Power Sources Urgent Need for Island

PORT ALBERNI—New hydro power sources are "urgently needed" to meet an expected doubling of demand for electricity on Vancouver Island in the next five years, a top official of the B.C. Power Commission said here Wednesday night.

"This is considerably in advance of the time by which any new large scale development can be expected," warned C. W. Nash, director of load development for the government-owned commission.

He was speaking to the Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Nash said demand in Alberni district is increasing at an even greater rate than the Island as a whole.

"In fact, the commission, which is and must remain self-sustaining, cannot expect to further its expansion throughout the whole province without such a source of low-cost power."

Mr. Nash said that in order to meet the commission's anticipated load growth, sites that have been proven practical for immediate needs must be developed first. Then it must graduate to "an orderly scheme of large-scale development to make the best use of our natural resources."

Mr. Nash reiterated his contention that the ultimate cost of power would be lower under public financing than by private financing.

Besides obtaining cheaper money for capital expansion, public agencies would not have to pay corporation income tax, he said.

BIGGER TAX FIELD

The loss in revenue to the government from this tax would be more than made up by taxation of new industries as the result of an assured supply of low-cost power.

He referred to the results of expansion of the publicly-owned Bonneville Power Administration in Washington State, where "it was not the goose that laid the golden egg that was taxed, but rather the eggs themselves."

"Could we not also have in our province a goose that could be encouraged to lay taxable golden eggs?"

Emphasizing that he could make no "presumptions" on how the public-versus-private power issue will be settled, Mr. Nash said: "In these times when we are so conscious of inflationary trends, we might expect that the factors on which such decisions are made will be weighed very carefully in the light of the cost of money."

Mr. Nash said that if B.C. is to offer the best inducements to competitive enterprise and allow business to become established in the most suitable area, the province must "cease to be divided into separate areas of power supply and price."

"The advantages of the developments of our natural resources should be available in all parts of the province," he said.

Sproat Lake Beaches Safe, Alberni Told

PORT ALBERNI—Fears surrounding the B.C. Power Commission hydro project at Sproat Lake were dispelled here Wednesday night by C. W. Nash, director of load development for the commission.

In an address to the Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Nash said the dam is designed to regulate the lake level to duplicate natural conditions as closely as possible.

"There is no intention to flood the beaches to even the same extent as indicated by past records," he said.

"It should be possible to improve the beaches with better regulated levels," he added.

"The plan here is to assist and improve upon nature in protecting the recreational features of a natural resource, while providing energy to the greatest number of persons."

White Students Protest Ban Against Negro

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP)—Students at Richland High School have circulated petitions of protest against a Kennewick club's barring of a negro basketball star, his wife and three friends from a "teen-ager night" dance.

The petitions ask for a change in the Kennewick Social Club's all-white rule.

The incident occurred Monday night. The club is opened for teen-agers regularly on Monday nights, but the club management turned Negro students away.

Max Case, president of the Richland Student body, commented that the petition circulators "are fighting for a principle. We think it should be open to all students."

Teamsters' $93,000 Used to Buy Stocks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Frank Brewster testified late Wednesday he used about $93,000 of Western Teamsters' Conference funds in 1954 to buy stocks—investing $47,000 in Campbell's Soup Co. and $46,000 in Canadian gold mining stock.

Brewster told the Senate rackets investigating committee the Campbell's soup stock was bought for himself, the late John Sweeney, also a teamsters' official, and others under an arrangement whereby they paid 3 1/2 per cent interest on the loan.

Brewster said the Canadian gold stock was held wholly by the union.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said the gold stock—the Quebec Chibougamau Gold Company—had diminished in value by about 50 per cent.

Brewster said he knew that but "I still think it's a good stock."

Brewster said Teamsters Union members were not notified of the stock purchases but the conference's policy group knew about them and approved them.

During Brewster's testimony, the probes announced they had ordered president Dave Beck to appear March 26 and bring his financial records for 1949 through 1955. Beck said he would.

Brewster told the special Senate committee investigating improper labor and industry activities he owes around $42,000 to George Newell of Seattle, who makes some $300,000 a year in brokerage fees on the union's health and welfare fund. The debt developed out of a racing stable partnership, now dissolved.

Brewster said he saw nothing wrong in this or in 50-50 ownership with Beck of a filling station which does a big business with teamster headquarters in Seattle.

FINANCES LISTED

Brewster's story involved his personal and financial ties with Newell; a racing stable partnership with a Seattle pinball machine operator and teamsters member, and a political donation which Brewster said the teamsters made to Republican Governor Goodwin J. Knight of California.

Knight's office said in Sacramento "We have no record" of any teamsters' contribution for any of the governor's campaigns.

Mother Outwits Thug, Hides Bills in Diaper

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A housewife outwitted a robber Wednesday by hiding $120 in her son's diaper. Mrs. Rebina Hartung said the young thief forced his way into her apartment and asked for money. She asked that he let her change her seven-month-old baby's diapers. He did and Mrs. Hartung quickly switched the money from her budget envelope.

CALGARY MAYOR SPEAKS HERE

'Tell Canada Story To People in U.S.'

Canadians should make a greater effort to make their country better known to the people of the United States, Don Mackay, mayor of Calgary, told a Junior Chamber of Commerce banquet Wednesday.

Canada has a great history, which is little known in the U.S., Mayor Mackay said.

"There is a story to be told, a story which must be told if we are to get them to appreciate the Canadian way of life," he said.

Over 200 persons attended the banquet at the Crystal Garden to mark the 30th anniversary of the young business man's organization.

The banquet was attended by 17 past presidents who are taking a leading part in the business and political life of the community.

These included W. T. Straith, former minister of education;

Percy E. George, former mayor; Frank H. Partridge, L. F. Osborne, T. W. Watkins, Thomas L. Sturgess, Thomas M. Little, Arthur A. Baker, W. T. Mooney, Chet J. Harrington, Fred E. Norris, Brent Murdoch, Donald Smith, Donald Anderson, Gordon W. Carter, John H. Ledger and Stinkney Harris.

The banquet was chaired by Victor Fuggle, president.

Mayor Mackay urged young men to prepare themselves for "life's tasks."

"Success is not something you pick up in a cafeteria," he said. "You must plan your life, prepare yourself and persevere in your work."

He noted that the majority of Canada's great men, such as General Wolfe, Alexander MacKenzie, Simon Fraser and Captain Cook all achieved success when they were young men.

CARS NOT HORSES SAY MLAs SO INNKEEPERS LESS LIABLE

The government moved ahead of the times Wednesday by introducing legislation that will include motels in the provisions of the provincial Innkeepers Act.

The new amendment also removes some of the responsibility of innkeepers over lodgers' cars.

"Previously they were fully responsible for horses, live animals and 'carriages,' which the courts have ruled to include motor-vehicles."

Now they are required only to take "reasonable care and caution" but are not liable for damage unless proved negligent.

City Man Acquitted On Negligence Count

A verdict of not guilty was returned Wednesday by an Assize Court jury in the case of Elvin Warren Slater, 22, 840 Bay Street, charged with criminal negligence arising from the traffic death of Archdeacon Robert Little of Langford.

Slater was charged when the truck he was driving collided with a car driven by Archdeacon Little on the old Island Highway near Parsons Bridge Sept. 25.

New Approach Sought In Delinquency Fight

Changes and improvements in the approach to juvenile delinquency in Victoria will be drafted by a new 10-man Community Welfare Council committee.

The committee has been set up to determine the extent of delinquency in the Victoria area, present a detailed report to the public and suggest new ways to fight the problem.

The recommendations will be presented to various bodies involved.

Reeves of the three municipalities, Mayor Percy Scurr and senior school inspector John Gough have "indicated interest and are willing to co-operate," said committee member B. C. Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School.

Others on the committee are Allan Jones, Kenneth Murphy, W. J. Murphy, Harry Dee, Arthur Stott, David Woods-worth, Dean Brian Whitlow, Jack Child and Dr. N. E. Boettcher.

Helena Rubinstein Shows You How to Wash Away Blackheads!

New Medically-Tested Treatment Banishes Blackheads, Whiteheads, Oiliness, Coarse Pores

At the BAY...

It's here, and it's the big beauty news of recent years—Helena Rubinstein's Medicated Beauty Treatment that washes away blackheads in minutes! In two weeks you can actually change from the oily-skin-and-blackheads type to the clearer, satin-smooth skin you've always wanted.

Only Helena Rubinstein could have created this treatment for you. Before she ever worked in cosmetics, her studies in medicine led her to specialize in the problems of disturbed skins. This is why so many doctors have recommended her corrective preparations for adolescents and others.

MEDICALLY-TESTED

Helena Rubinstein's new discovery was formulated in consultation with her world-wide staff of doctors. It was then put to controlled medical tests on a group of women, men and teenage boys and girls with typical blackhead conditions. Just see what happened after a single treatment! Blackheads and whiteheads washed off onto a washcloth where they could actually be seen. Excess oil dissolved. Enlarged pores looked finer.

In two weeks of treatment, magnifying mirrors showed complete transformations from blackhead-loaded skins to clearer, healthier looking complexions.

MEDICATED BEAUTY TREATMENT

As simple as one-two-three—just three steps: Enlarged pores are an open invitation to blemishes. Your first step is DEEP CLEANSER, a creamy liquid that flows deep into the pores and dislodges even the dirt "glued" in by oil—while its exclusive antiseptic R-57 destroys the bacteria that commonly cause surface blemishes.

Step two heals and clears with MEDICATED BEAUTY MASK, its medications being the self-same ones prescribed by dermatologists as most effective in healing surface blemishes. "Unmasking" was a momentous thrill for the women tested. As they washed off the mask they actually washed off blackheads and saw a clearer, smoother, younger looking complexion emerge!

Last is a vitalizing skin bath of "WATER LILY" SKIN LOTION which quickly tightens the pores, leaving a more delicate texture where once the skin was coarse and uneven. (Marvelous as a quick daytime cleanser, too!)

When you see those blackheads wash off like so many dirt specks, you'll know there's nothing for your skin like Helena Rubinstein's complete MEDICATED BEAUTY CARE. 4 weeks of perfect, complete complexion hygiene costs you just 4.95.

RESULTS GUARANTEED

"I am so sure that you will be satisfied with the results when you use these products as directed, that I guarantee complete satisfaction—or you get a full refund by returning them to the BAY where you made your purchase."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

"Buy by Grade, Buy With Confidence" has become a guide when the Canadian homemaker goes shopping. Each graded food carries a distinct grade marking, either on the container or on the product itself. Thrifty shoppers look for the grade mark and buy the grade that best suits their purpose.

All creamery butter sold in Canada is graded. The grade mark must be shown on the main panel of the wrapper and carton in which the butter is sold. Highest quality butter is Canada first grade. It has excellent flavor and uniform color, and is well made and smooth, with a waxy texture.

When honey is shipped from one province to another, it must be classified as to color and graded—No. 1, No. 2, No. 3 or Sub-Standard, in order of quality. A great deal of honey sold within the province where it is produced is also graded. Color does not affect the grade but it is an indication of flavor. Generally darker honey has a stronger flavor.

WHY GROW OLD?

Sleeping Without Pillow Is Restful and Helpful

Many beautiful women sleep without a pillow! There is no medical reason for using a pillow. It is merely a question of habit. Actually it is very restful to lie on one's back without a pillow. I think most people feel the need of one when on their side.

Large pillows are conducive to a Dowager's Hump because they push the head forward. If you cannot sleep without a pillow why not try a very small compact one? Most of you know that a Dowager's Hump is the hump at the base of the neck in the back. This can be very unattractive when a woman has an otherwise lovely neck.

This defect is caused by poor posture and an accumulation of fat in this spot. Massage and corrective exercises are helpful. One must also remain aware of posture during the day, trying to stretch the back neck by keeping the chin parallel to the floor and pushing toward the ceiling with the top of the head. If possible, add to this the habit of sleeping and resting on your back without a pillow.

Fatigue seems to hit many folks at the back of the neck. Exercise will help you.

Fatigue seems to hit many folks at the back of the neck. An ache in this spot can make one weary all over. The following therapy will be helpful. First do some simple exercises such as rolling your head in a circle to the right and then to the left. Make the circles as large as possible and do the exercise slowly in a lazy manner.

Here is another effective one: Stand tall. Raise your arms sideward, shoulder height, with palms facing the front. Now lower your head backward as you pull your arms back as far as comfortable. Lift head and return arms to sideward, shoulder height position. Continue, slowly.

After doing these exercises for a while, massage your neck, digging in with your fingers. Now lie down on the floor or on your bed (the floor is better). Instead of a pillow place a hot water bottle under your neck.

The exercises and massage and heat will give you relief from the ordinary neck ache which is caused by strain, physical or emotional.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Your Stiff Neck," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 18 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

LENTEN RECIPE

SPINACH NICOISE

Wash and trim 2 pounds fresh spinach. Drain and place in a saucepan without water. Cover and cook slowly 5 to 8 minutes or until crisp-tender.

Drain. Chop and mix with 1 teaspoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper; 6 boneless sardines, mashed; 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs.

Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine and mix with 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs.

Add half the bread crumbs and 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice to the spinach and turn into a 1-quart casserole. Sprinkle the remaining bread crumbs over the top.

Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until crumbs are brown (15 to 20 minutes). Serve hot. Yield: 6 servings.

About a wedding in Alaska: Our son who is in Alaska is to be married next summer to a girl who lives there with her family. The young lady has written asking for a list of relatives and friends to whom we would like invitations and/or announcements sent.

Since it isn't likely that any of our friends or family will attend, should I put them all on the announcement list or should I have invitations sent to the immediate family and a few close friends, and announcements to others?

I'm afraid that we may not be able to make such a long trip either. What are our obligations at this distance?

Louise Davis answers: I suggest that most of your

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by club readers, and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Michael Westby, 12, Bellflower, Calif., for his question:

What Is Diatomaceous Earth?

Chances are, you use diatomaceous earth when you clean out the bathtub or scour the sink with a cleansing powder. In industry, it is often used as a filter and there is most likely some diatomaceous earth in your tooth paste. We find it in nature as a layer of fine, whitish grey soil. It is made for us by tiny members of the plant kingdom.

The long word diatomaceous is easy to remember if you cut it in two. The first part, diatom, also gives a clue to its nature. The diatoms are those fairytale specks of plant life that teem in fresh and salt water. They are algae, small relatives of the seaweeds. We know that diatoms have thrived on earth for a hundred million years. For that is the age of some of the diatom-formed soils.

It is said that the world of diatoms is too small for our eyes to see. For it is a wonderland of beauty. Most of the tiny forms measure about one thousandth of an inch. They can be separated from the diatomaceous earths and viewed under a microscope. The most remarkable thing about them is their endless variety of shapes. Each seems more beautiful than its neighbor.

Strange to say, the diatoms are sort of shell plants. Each tiny body is encased in two glassy shells that fit together to form a jewel case. The box itself may be any shape imaginable, though a goodly number of diatoms favor the coin shape. There are also squares, diamonds, stars and rods. Whatever the basic shape, the little jewel box is always gracefully ornamented. Some wear spikes and look like porcupines. Some are grooved and others wear buttons.

The shell material is made mostly from silica, one of nature's hardest substances. The plant inside carries green chlorophyll bodies and also brown pigment. The brown tends to mask the green and, when living, the diatoms are tinted with a yellowish brown cast. Most of the little plants multiply by dividing in two. In a few months they can produce as many generations as the whole history of mankind.

The living diatoms provide food for whales and countless other water dwellers. When digested, the little shells are thrown out as waste and sink to the sea floor. Trillions of them stick together, forming a layer of ooze. Other diatoms meet with accidents and add their tiny shells to the pile.

Fifteen million years ago, the diatoms were busy living, multiplying and dying in California. For during the Miocene Epoch, the Central Valley was flooded with a shallow sea. When the sea retreated, the new land was covered with layers of diatom ooze. When this dried out in the sunshine, it became diatomaceous earth. This earth is made of countless cast-off shells from tiny diatoms that thrived in the ancient sea that once covered the rich California farmlands.

When the war broke out, the Sheffield, England, native was teaching English to children of the court physician to Emperor Franz Josef of Austria.

"They had nothing against me except I was English," she recalls.

But nevertheless she was imprisoned in Vienna's Elizabeth Gefanghaus prison for "I don't know how long, it was such a time ago!"

After release from the prison on the understanding she leave Vienna, a teaching job was obtained for her by friends in Olomutz, near the Russian frontier.

She reported to police daily and was "forbidden to speak English on the streets" for fear of reprisals.

In 1916 under a prisoner exchange scheme she returned to England. The trip generally takes about 36 hours, but because of disrupted conditions took three weeks!

Mrs. Boam married her late husband in France and came to Canada in 1918 after war's end.

Manitoba Students 'Deplorable'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Manitoba high school students are weak, some of them "all but illiterate," when it comes to reading and writing, say reports of most of last year's examination committee chairmen.

The reports were tabled Wednesday in the legislature.

Prof. R. K. Stewart-Hay, chairman of the committee that checked Grade 12 biology, said that "perhaps most surprising was the tremendous range in the use of language, heavily weighted on the poor side."

"One in 20 could express himself with any degree of ease, most were deplorable and a few all but illiterate..."

Better Commercial Courses Needed to Attract Young Men

Make commercial courses more appealing to boys and the calibre of men in key office positions will rise accordingly, a National Office Management Association panel decided Tuesday night.

The panel agreed that modern offices are not getting a high standard of young men to take over the responsibility of office management.

The problem can be traced in part to the fact that students feel commercial courses are mainly for girls, panelists said.

Members of the panel were Leslie Clarke, of the provincial purchasing commission; Dick Blakey, office manager for Evans, Coleman and Johnson; and Jim Anderson, office manager for Stewart and Hudson.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL BOYS DIRECT OWN PERFORMANCE

'Julius Caesar' Death Scene Highlights Students' Plays

By AUDREY S.D. JOHNSON

Third day of Victoria School's Drama Festival developed some outstanding features.

Wednesday afternoon was highlighted by a compelling and visually beautiful performance of the death and burial scenes of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," student-directed by boys of the University School.

A remarkable effect of sculpturing with light was achieved in this, demonstrating resources of Oak Bay Junior High School stage.

In the evening, at Belmont Jr.-Sr. High School, outstanding pace of two farce comedies was commended by adjudicator, Mrs. Dorothy Goldrick.

"SLEEPING DOGS" by John Kirkpatrick. Presented by Esquimalt High School.

Neil Sloan William MacMillan
Minnie Phillips Sandra Wolfe
Peggy Sloan Marilyn Fenn
Miss Price Helen Simpson

Director: Gwen Hastings.
Stage Manager: John Emery.

The first of the evening's plays impressed Mrs. Goldrick as a very finished and altogether satisfactory performance. Cues were quick, resulting in a fast pace and teamwork was excellent. There was a good attack at all time, but, Mrs. Goldrick warned the cast, wait for laughs—and these were plentiful.

Characterization all through had been excellent. Special praise was awarded Helen Simpson for a well sustained performance.

"THE BLUE WILLOW PLATE" by Beatrice Shand. Presented by Belmont Jr.-Sr. High School.

Rugby Player Performs on Crutches

"CAMPELLO OF KILMORE" by J. A. Ferguson. Presented by Glenora Preparatory School.

Mary Stewart Bernard Goward
Morag Cameron Andrew Wade
Dugald Stewart Martin Pether
Captain Sandeman Geoffrey Archibald
Archibald Campbell Ian Reid
James Mackenzie Douglas Fraser
Sedgwick Christopher Ross, Michael Kenneth, Peter Jutberg.

Director: A. C. McNeil-Caird.
Stage Manager: John Sheather.

The fact that one member, and a leading player, of this cast was on crutches due to a rugby accident, did not impede the flow of this play. Mrs. Goldrick commended Ian Reid for his command of the part and for a good voice and accent, the latter being well done, but not overdone.

Bernard Goward and Douglas Fraser were also singled out for praise, the latter being "so right," according to the adjudicator. Interpretation generally judicator. Such an excerpt could easily have failed to hold attention, she remarked, but this youthful cast had completely succeeded by making the characters and situation come to life.

She considered the costuming and simple setting had created a series of striking pictures. The grouping was excellent and pace really good, Mrs. Goldrick continued.

Use of light had been most effective, often highly dramatic, she pointed out. Colin Godfrey had an excellent voice, and great authority and dignity while crowd reactions were first rate, she observed.

Altogether an impressive production, was her summing-up.

Three plays are on the program for tonight at Lansdowne Junior High School.

Two of these will be presented by Lansdowne; an Irish play, "The Weeshy Man," and the fantasy, "The Sentimental Scarecrow." Third play is Oak

T. with L. SHIRLEY BOOTH IN 'HOSTESS WITH THE MOSTESS' C-11, 9.30

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

OF THIS AND THAT—CHECK TV opens with a new program tonight called Island Sportsman. The quarter-hour 7.15-7.30 show features Lee Hallberg and Charlie Guiguet who will give anglers the angles on angling, tell where the fish are biting best, what lures to use and how to use 'em. In season the outdoor twosome will also cover the happy hunting grounds of local nimrods. Sounds most interesting.

Incidentally, Hallberg and Guiguet intend to show a fishing catch each week. Soon as the program is over members of the Saanich Anglers' Association will rush the seals to homes of Victoria's needy, as nominated by welfare agencies.

Winter Games May Include Curling

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—Curling may be included in the winter Olympics of 1960 at Squaw Valley, Calif., Sam Rotschild of Sudbury, Ont., president of the Dominion Curling Association, said today.

He said a request from the U.S. Curling Association to have curling included in the 1960 Olympic Games was discussed at the recent DCA annual meeting in Kingston, Ont.

The U.S. Olympic committee received the request favorably and the Royal Caledonia of Scotland was asked for its opinion. All curling clubs in the world are affiliated with the Royal Caledonia.

"If we get it O.K., then you might see curling in the next Olympics," Rotschild said.

Lawmakers Reject Woman's Bid On Mine Property

A legislature committee Wednesday turned down the latest bid of Mrs. Minnie Mead May to gain full possession of a disputed mining property near Kaslo.

Mrs. May has been carrying on a battle for the last 40 years to wrest control from the Daybreak Mining Co. on behalf of the Gibson Mining Co. interests, which she represents as liquidator.

This year she brought a bill before the House private bills committee. Sponsored by Social Credit MLA Bert Price.

"We decide the bill was outside the jurisdiction of the committee in view of the fact that the companies are being wound up under a Dominion statute," committee chairman A. S. Matthews said today.

Driver Hospitalized When Car Rams Rocks

One man is in hospital with head and possible back injuries and eight others escaped serious injury as a result of two overnight traffic accidents.

John Leighton Smith, 23, YMCA, is in good condition at Jubilee Hospital where he was taken by Oak Bay police at 5:30 a.m. today after the car he was driving went out of control and crashed into a rocky bank on Cadboro Bay Road near Bowker.

Two unidentified passengers were uninjured.

Police said Smith was driving south on Cadboro Bay when he lost control of the car on a curve at Bowker, then careened into the bank below Mountain View home.

The driver and five passengers in a 1946 model English car emerged practically unscathed when the auto left Patricia Bay Highway on a curve four miles south of Sidney and rolled at least once into a ditch at about 8:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Driver was reported to be Robert J. Beazley, 16, of Sidney. One passenger, teenaged Gary Holt, also of Sidney, received a minor cut on the top of the head.

Car owner, a passenger at the time, was identified by Central Saanich police as Alan J. Horan, 23, Sidney. Other passengers, all from Sidney, were Noel and Wayne Coward and Ken Fox.

The car was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars, police said. It had been proceeding south on the highway when Beazley lost control.

"Change it so those gaining most from living here should pay most. Let's not quibble with the school board or ourselves. Let's go to the government."

Saanich councillor Leslie Passmore said: "Generally speaking ratepayers are opposed to the method of collecting revenue. It's unfair, unjust and inequitable."

He had checked the Saanich tax roll and found farmers paying an average tax of $188, professional men an average of $121 and an old age pensioner with her own home, $35 while her income was $480 for a year.

Lawmakers Reject Woman's Bid On Mine Property

A legislature committee Wednesday turned down the latest bid of Mrs. Minnie Mead May to gain full possession of a disputed mining property near Kaslo.

Mrs. May has been carrying on a battle for the last 40 years to wrest control from the Daybreak Mining Co. on behalf of the Gibson Mining Co. interests, which she represents as liquidator.

This year she brought a bill before the House private bills committee. Sponsored by Social Credit MLA Bert Price.

"We decide the bill was outside the jurisdiction of the committee in view of the fact that the companies are being wound up under a Dominion statute," committee chairman A. S. Matthews said today.

Driver Hospitalized When Car Rams Rocks

One man is in hospital with head and possible back injuries and eight others escaped serious injury as a result of two overnight traffic accidents.

John Leighton Smith, 23, YMCA, is in good condition at Jubilee Hospital where he was taken by Oak Bay police at 5:30 a.m. today after the car he was driving went out of control and crashed into a rocky bank on Cadboro Bay Road near Bowker.

Two unidentified passengers were uninjured.

Police said Smith was driving south on Cadboro Bay when he lost control of the car on a curve at Bowker, then careened into the bank below Mountain View home.

The driver and five passengers in a 1946 model English car emerged practically unscathed when the auto left Patricia Bay Highway on a curve four miles south of Sidney and rolled at least once into a ditch at about 8:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Driver was reported to be Robert J. Beazley, 16, of Sidney. One passenger, teenaged Gary Holt, also of Sidney, received a minor cut on the top of the head.

Car owner, a passenger at the time, was identified by Central Saanich police as Alan J. Horan, 23, Sidney. Other passengers, all from Sidney, were Noel and Wayne Coward and Ken Fox.

The car was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars, police said. It had been proceeding south on the highway when Beazley lost control.

17-Year-Old Admits Three Burglaries

A 17-year-old boy pleaded guilty in city police court today to three charges of breaking, entering and theft dating back to Feb. 16, and was remanded to next Thursday.

Calvin Wilson, 718 Queens, was charged with entering via a window King's Auto Repairs Ltd., 2504 Government, Feb. 16 and stealing 20 cents in pennies, two flashlights and seven flashlight batteries.

His second charge resulted from entry Feb. 20 of Island Highway Service Station, 2702 Government, by means of removing a metal plate near a door lock, and theft of $2 in pennies.

Third offence occurred Mar. 12 when he forced a rear door of the barber shop of Alfred Fraboni, 1810 Cook, and stole 100 packages of cigarettes, four cigarette lighters and a cigarette rolling machine.

About 60 packages of cigarettes were recovered, along with the lighters and roller. An order for restitution was made.

Wilson was transferred from juvenile court on each charge.

Sanich Councillor Leslie Passmore Said: "Generally Speaking Ratepayers are Opposed to the Method of Collecting Revenue. It's Unfair, Unjust and Inequitable."

He had checked the Saanich tax roll and found farmers paying an average tax of $188, professional men an average of $121 and an old age pensioner with her own home, $35 while her income was $480 for a year.

Story

(After more than half a century connected with hockey, both in Canada and the United States, Victoria's Lester Patrick has decided to make a permanent retirement from the game. In a 10-part series, Archie Wills, former sports editor and former managing editor of the Times, tells the human story of Lester through the days of his greatest fame until the present. This is the fifth installment.

By ARCHIE WILLS

(Copyright, 1957, By The Victoria Daily Times)

HIS GREATEST GAME

It is rather unusual to hear an outstanding athlete declare that his greatest game was played in a small town, far from the "madding" throng of ten or twelve thousand screaming fans in a metropolitan city.

But that's the way it was with Lester Patrick. Looking back over 50 years in hockey he thinks, he gave his greatest performance and gained the greatest personal satisfaction out of a game played in Rossland, B.C., in the 1907-08 season.

The Rossland rink was a mere box, 165 feet by 65 feet, half the size of the ice surface at Memorial Arena. Rossland was a rollicking mining town and the folks took their hockey, like their liquor, straight. When they learned that Nelson would be captained by "that Stanley Cup player," Lester Patrick, they planned to ride him out of the rink if necessary.

RAZZBERRY
As soon as the Nelson players appeared for the warm-up, the Rossland fans turned on the razzberry machine-gun. The fire was aimed directly at Lester.

Before the opening whistle, Lester skated over to his defence partner, and said: "Listen, I'm not venturing other alongside of God. Grant far down the ice tonight. I'm us the satisfaction of being going to stand on a dime and usable and used of Thee; every time I get the puck I'll through Jesus Christ. Amen."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father, the needs of our world weigh heavy on our shoulders. Give us eyes to see the need, ears to hear the cries, and hands to help those to whom we may minister. Make us to be laborers with each other alongside of God. Grant far down the ice tonight. I'm us the satisfaction of being going to stand on a dime and usable and used of Thee; every time I get the puck I'll through Jesus Christ. Amen.

QUADS BORN IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. W. S. Munro, 34, today gave birth to quadruplets—three girls and a boy—in St. Joseph's Hospital in near-by Lachine. The births were said to be premature by two months. There are five other children in the Munro family, who live in suburban Pointe Claire. The father is 35.

U.K. Doctors Order Strike

Mass Resignation in Fall
Planned in Pay-Hike Drive

(UP and Reuters)

LONDON—British doctors today announced strike action against the state to press claims for higher pay and presented a detailed plan to pull out of the national health service next fall.

The plan called for a progressive "snowball" withdrawal starting Oct. 2 of all doctors by means of resignations from the national health service.

British doctors asked last June for an all-round salary increase of 24 per cent. The government rejected the doctors' claim in February but announced that a royal commission would be appointed to "review medical remuneration."

A 24 per cent increase would have lifted an average general practitioner's earnings to $7,560. Doctor A. Talbot Rogers, chairman of the General Medical Services Committee and joint chairman of the negotiating committee of the medical profession, presented the doctors' withdrawal plan at a press conference today.

Dockers Strike at Southampton

Meanwhile dock workers struck at the port of Southampton today to protest the use of government tugs in aiding the liner Queen Mary sail for New York. The action threatened to paralyze the vast trans-Atlantic terminal.

The 2,000 dock workers, mostly shore gangs who handle the direct traffic in the port, joined 10,000 shipyard workers and repairmen on strike since Saturday as part of a nation-wide stoppage in support of a 10 per cent wage increase.

The shipyard workers claimed repairs on the 81,000-ton Queen Mary had not been finished when the shipyard strike began last Saturday. The walkout of 250,000 men closed 70 shipyards and stopped work on 300 vessels under construction.

The crews of privately owned tugs refused to help move the

New York-bound Queen Mary. Six government tugs got her out of the harbor. Many of the 910 passengers lined the Queen Mary's deck to cheer the tugs. Labor Minister Iain Macleod was fighting two more giant strike threats from unions demanding 10-per-cent wage increases, the same percentage increase sought by shipyard workers.

The threats came from engineering and railway workers. The engineering unions have called a phased strike starting Saturday. It would bring out by stages 2,500,000 workers. The union plans an initial walkout of 1,000,000 men in 10 vital industrial regions, with others joining daily until key plants in Britain are crippled by April 6.

HOUSE RECESSED TO COOL TEMPER

Shouting, Fist-Shaking In Cassiar Road Hassle

A yelling, fist-shaking debate erupted in the legislature Wednesday night as opposition members clashed with the government over the Cassiar-Stewart road.

At the height of the storm, when half a dozen members were on their feet shouting "sit down" and "shut up," chairman Alex Matthews ordered an emergency recess.

He bolted out of the chamber after calling the 15-minute time out to "allow members to cool down."

Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) touched off the debate during discussion of mines department estimates by reading from a report by Edgar A. Jamieson, former sergeant-at-arms in the legislature, who was named by the provincial government to investigate reports of wastage on the Stewart-Cassiar road construction during 1955.

Government members claimed Mr. Jamieson, a professional engineer, had been "out to break" the former mines and lands and forests minister (Robert Sommers) and his report was "biased and prejudiced."

Mr. Nimsick insisted that as Mr. Jamieson had made a report to the government it should be "thoroughly investigated." "If it had not been for this report the government would have wasted more money on the road," he said. "Although the accuracy of the reporting. The press reported the hearings fairly, accurately and without bias and was very, very accurate indeed."

Natives Wail As 25 Hanged In 35 Minutes

PRETORIA, South Africa (UP)—South African authorities hanged 25 natives from six scaffolds here today while their relatives sent up a great tribal wail of mourning from outside the prison walls.

It all took just 35 minutes. The 25 natives were hanged for taking part in a series of raids at Daggia in Natal last year in which five policemen were clubbed to death.

SLAYINGS... SLUGGINGS... DRUGS

Chicago's Teen-Age Gangs Throwback to Mobster Era

CHICAGO (AP)—Teen-age gangs now are producing Chicago headlines of the same type the adult mobsters did in the past.

The headlines are over stories of crimes of violence—such as the recent slaying of a boy in a hammer attack and a man in a motel robbery.

"There's no use burying our heads in the sand," said Walter Devereux, chief investigator of the Chicago crime commission. "This city is not safe to roam in and it's getting worse."

Teen-age gang action includes such instances as these: An elderly shoe repair man and five youths were viciously attacked by a gang of some 30 toughs, armed with bottles and knives, apparently without provocation.

A gang preyed on high school pupils, extorting 50 cents to $2 weekly as protection money.

Another gang specialized in stealing automobile tires and during a one-year period stole $16,000 worth of tires besides committing five other burglaries.

Thirteen white youths are under indictment for murder in the hammer-slaying of Alvin Palmer, a Negro teenager who was attacked as he stood at a bus stop.

Four other teen-agers have been indicted for murder in the fatal shooting of Charles Styrsky, 48, during a robbery of his suburban motel.

A group of high school boys and girls got into trouble for seeking "kicks" through narcotics. One girl sold family possessions to finance purchases.

Another gang used an eight-year-old boy in its burglary operations. The child was small enough to slip through transoms his bigger buddies couldn't negotiate.

Relatively new to the teen-age crime picture is the rising role of delinquent girls. Family court officers report that a six-year survey shows an increase of 89 per cent among the number of girls involved in juvenile crimes, compared to an increase of 54 per cent for boys.

Special Problems Private Matters In U.K. Opinion

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Ready Canadian support of a British contention that the United Nations must not be entrusted with all crucial world problems was anticipated today as Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower held the first formal session of their Bermuda conference.

The British and American leaders met in the boardroom of the Mid-Ocean Club, the exclusive hostelry where they held an informal dinner talk Wednesday night on global problems they will tackle during the rest of the week.

The Middle East crisis was announced as the most urgent issue on the agenda as Macmillan and Eisenhower formally began their talks this morning.

Reuters said a possible boycott of the Suez Canal should Egypt discriminate against British and French shipping will be among measures to be considered.

Pearson Leans Toward U.K. View

In the Canadian view, the British feel isolated not only from the United States but also to some extent from the Commonwealth as a result of the Anglo-French Suez intervention last fall.

They feel frustrated, it is said here, by an apparent double standard in the UN.

That is, Britain obeyed the UN's Suez resolutions while other countries such as Russia and Egypt continue to ignore UN calls or even treat them with contempt.

It is understood that Macmillan doesn't intend to propose revision of the UN charter, but that he will point out to Eisenhower that complete reliance cannot be placed on the UN to solve difficult world problems.

This attitude already has received a measure of support from Canadian External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson who has said that there is a tendency in some countries to avoid facing up to the realities of national policy by relying completely on the UN.

He has said the UN is no substitute for the formulation and

Ike on Spot on Mid-East Issue

Middle East discussions will include the next moves to be taken if Egypt refuses to allow Israeli shipping through the Suez Canal.

Such a refusal could cause serious embarrassment to Eisenhower who has told Israel she will have no cause to regret her withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area.

Macmillan and Eisenhower spent two hours in their first session discussing such urgent problems as the Gaza Strip, Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal.

It was announced that Eisenhower summoned more advisers from Washington to assist with the discussion of British-American defence and atomic problems.

Peter Hope, spokesman for the British foreign office, said discussion was "a general review of the world situation" and that Macmillan and Eisenhower "exchanged views on the several urgent questions in the Middle East."

RCAF PROBES ROCKET BLAST AT COMOX BASE

COMOX (CP)—An investigation is being carried out on the accidental firing of a training rocket from a CF100 aircraft that was preparing to land at the RCAF station here at noon Wednesday.

The rocket struck the roof of the station firehall and also caused minor damage to a fire truck. No one was injured.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Tsk, Tsk, Tsk!
Such Goings-On

Two elderly ladies left their seats in the public galleries Wednesday night when a hassle developed on the floor of the House.

Possibly they were shocked by the spectacle of four or five legislators shouting abuse at one another while a bewildered and much-harassed committee chairman (Alex Mathew) vainly called for order.

It is clear, however, that most members of the public enjoy these legislative fireworks. Men and women of all ages craned forward watching the contest as eagerly as if they had ringside seats at a wrestling match.

"I hear they put on a good show tonight," remarked one of the buildings staff as I left soon after midnight. He sounded disappointed at not being there during the uproar.

This attitude is not hard to understand when you consider those long and interminable stretches of routine law-making—the droning passage of bills and estimates—when scarcely a note of protest is heard.

There is even a possibility it may run into the middle of the week after.

The government's new Municipal Act—in 899 sections—has still to be considered in detail and some of the clauses are opposed by Social Credit backbenchers as well as the Opposition.

charges" against the former lands and forests minister (Robert Somers) there had been any discrepancies in the issue of previous forest management licenses.

Mr. Williston said none had been revealed despite close examination, upon which George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria) interrupted to say: "If the government can discuss this matter then other members of the House should be allowed to do so."

Mr. Williston promptly dropped the subject.

Found Guilty
Of 28-Year-Old
Gang Killing

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—A jury found 63-year-old James Cockeye O'Leary guilty of murder in the second degree Wednesday in a gangland prohibition era slaying 28 years ago.

Judge Edward G. Colleser set April 12 for sentencing. The charge of second degree murder carries a maximum sentence of 30 years in prison.

O'Leary was tried on an indictment which had lain forgotten since the shooting victim, Alex Schmutz Szabo, fell under a hail of bullets in the rear of a Passaic garage on May 2, 1929.

Four men were charged with the slaying and all were released on bail. O'Leary for $10,000 in 1934. Acting Passaic County Prosecutor Charles S. Joelson found the indictment in his files last December. The whereabouts of the other three are not known.

it was given to the government—that's how partisan it was." Mr. Harding said: "It is disgraceful when we have to attack the professional reputation of a man who was picked by this government to do a job."

He added that no report was brought in to say that Mr. Jamieson's engineering data was wrong.

"You say this report was written to break a minister. You have twisted the words of this man to suit your own purpose."

"He said it in other places," interrupted Premier Bennett.

"You are trying to damage the reputation of a professional engineer," replied Mr. Harding. Mr. Bennett: "He made that statement whether it was a sincere statement or not."

As Mr. Harding continued speaking, Mr. Bennett kept repeating "Answer the question, answer the question."

"You sit down, I have the floor," Mr. Harding replied.

SHOW SINCERITY
After the members returned from the 15-minute breather, Chairman Matthews called on them to show more "sanity" in the debate.

The chairman managed to keep a semblance of order. Mine Minister Kiernan, making the principal government reply to opposition charges, claimed Mr. Jamieson had "failed to carry out his duties."

Vouchers which Mr. Jamieson had refused to sign for the job were not in Victoria because the engineer had "walked off the job before it was put to bed for the winter," Mr. Kiernan said. "He abrogated his responsibility."

MATCH THEM
The minister declared there were matters involved in the issue that "should be left unsaid," but vowed he would match any opposition charges.

Mr. Kiernan denied it was a "cost-plus project" as maintained by the opposition. Of the $450,000 spent on the road in 1954-55, only $80,000 was to meet the cost-plus clause.

He criticized Mr. Jamieson for stating in a letter covering his report on the road that it was "unbiased." Such a statement should be unnecessary by a professional engineer, he said.

At one point Mr. Nimsick asked the minister, "Is this the trial of Mr. Jamieson?"

STATE FACTS
"If you persist in dragging people through the mud, I will stand up here and state the facts," said Mr. Kiernan.

"That's what we want," said Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

"This job was not necessarily done as economically as it could have been," Mr. Kiernan admitted. "Perhaps a little meat was wasted... but it's not a major issue."

The minister taunted the opposition to continue its attack, "if you still think you can milk some political advantage from it."

"The old whitewash brush again," snapped Mr. Nimsick. "It is evident tonight," Mr. Strachan said, "that this government is ashamed of what has happened on the Cassiar-Stewart road up to this time—that's why they were all shouting in unison."

The debate came to an end after Mr. Strachan claimed that the road issue should have been picked before the committee early in the session, and there was not much point in pursuing it now.

Suburban Satellites
Just Free-Loaders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A central city should have unilateral power to annex its suburban satellites, says William Zeckendorf.

The "free-loading, carpet-bagging suburbanites aren't entitled to any voice in the decision," he said.

Zeckendorf, president of Webb and Knapp, Inc., New York, and a big operator in urban development, told his views at a press conference Wednesday before addressing the American Society of Planning officials.

The test of annexing a suburban town, he said, should be simply:

"Can the town get along without the city, the mother ship? If it can't, it belongs."

Asked if his idea wasn't undemocratic, Zeckendorf retorted:

"Not at all. 'It's the suburban towns who are violating democracy because they don't fully share the responsibilities of their metropolitan region.'"

"They are satellites—with police chiefs, mayors and planning commissions. And it is the central city that supports everyone."

Zeckendorf declared suburban residents "are not entitled to enjoy the city's art museums and all the cultural and social assets of the central city—and then go on home and pay their bills local taxes."

Zeckendorf said the Toronto plan of metropolitan government "as a prototype is the best thing I know."

A government spokesman said the new tax is intended to "secure revenue from a basic resource where no revenue now is received."

Introduced in the legislature Wednesday, the new act places a tax of up to 10 per cent on the assessed value of crown-granted land containing iron ore that is under production.

The act may apply the tax on other types of minerals but that is not considered likely.

All iron production in B.C. at present is exported. The government is attempting to have a basic iron and steel industry set up in the province through bounties and other concessions.

The new act, similar to legislation in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, circumvents federal legislation which gives Ottawa sole jurisdiction over such a tax.

The tax is placed on the land above the mine instead of on the ore production itself.

The provincial government plans to introduce a new tax on mineral property that is aimed at deterring the export of iron ore.

Ash Favors
Douglas St.
Underpass

Suggestion of an underpass at Douglas Street for a proposed east-west highway link along McKenzie Avenue in Saanich was greeted favorably by Reeve Arthur Ash Wednesday.

Deputy highways minister Evan Jones, who made the suggestion, said a potentially dangerous intersection would be eliminated.

APPROVED
Preliminary plans for the western end of the highway, which would connect Patricia Bay Highway with the Trans-Canada Highway in the first stage (and carry traffic to and from the Cadboro Bay area in the second stage), have been approved by Saanich council.

They were forwarded to the deputy minister for his consideration and advice.

It is hoped the province will pay for a large part of the project.

Mr. Ash said he would seek a meeting to discuss cost-sharing with Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi and possibly Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Duncan Man Burned
In Stove Explosion

DUNCAN, B.C. (CP)—An elderly man was seriously burned early today in a flash fire which followed an explosion while he was igniting a small stove.

In serious condition in King's Daughters' Hospital is Frank Doney, in his late 60's, of Cowichan Station.

Mrs. James Martin of Duncan said Mr. Doney had arrived at the hospital about 10 minutes before the fire to take over her husband's saw-filing business while Mr. Martin was in hospital after a heart attack.

"I told him to light a fire in the stove in the saw-filing shop," Mrs. Martin said. "Then when I came to the door a few minutes later, I saw him staggering from the building with his clothing enveloped in flames. "I wrapped him in blankets on the ground and screamed as loudly as I could for help."

Some passing loggers came to the Duncan volunteer Fire Department. His smouldering clothing was stripped from him and he was taken to hospital.

About all that remained of Mr. Doney's clothing was the crown of his hat, a badly burned mackinaw and one smouldering shoe ripped from his foot by firemen. His badly charred pocketbook filled with money was found on the ground.

Firemen said an exploded can which had contained kerosene was found in the shop. The flames did not spread.

LITTLE AGREEMENT ON FOUNTAIN CIRCLE SOLUTION

Motorists Have Their Ideas Too

The round-and-round-we-go controversy over the Fountain Circle traffic bottleneck today heard from another quarter—the motorists who battle the congested loop.

The Times asked drivers, constantly using the route, for their opinions on the circle and the related proposal to institute a one-way street system on Douglas and Government.

The city's public works committee supports the plan by a California traffic expert for one-way traffic on Douglas and Government from Herald to Hillside, and splitting Fountain Circle into two islands.

Drivers, picked at random at

Here they are:

L. B. Parkin, salesman, 1330 Mitchell, said: "There's certainly a lot of yacking about this intersection, and it's only through co-operation of motorists that it isn't a real mess. I'm always driving it, and would endorse the one-way street system."

Earle Hemsworth, contractor, 688 Snowdrop, who drives the circle about 10 times a day, said he is "not fussy" about the one-way suggestion.

"It causes trouble if one is not familiar with the streets, especially among visitors."

TOWN TOO SMALL

Fred Welsh, government employee, 627 Hillside, was emphatic.

"We don't want one-way streets as the town is too small. Put traffic control lights in. One-way would only add to the confusion. Heck, I've lived here 40 years, and used to live right in this location. I use the circle every day."

William Chisholm, sales manager, who lives at Vista Heights also opposed the one-way suggestion.

"It's okay in such places as Portland, but not here. It would only be another bottleneck. If we must have it, Douglas should go south rather than north so as not to by-pass the business area with motorists winding up, as the suggestion now stands, near the government buildings."

SAVED DAY

The buoyant spirit of the Hungarians and undercover instruction within the Christian home has "saved the day" for Hungary, he said, with the result that the church there is healthier than it has been in the past 10 years.

Mr. Chappel, now on a Canadian speaking tour, had been attending a central committee meeting of the World Council of Churches—first of its kind ever held behind the Iron Curtain.

Since his visit, the Hungarian people have gained control of the two largest, and formerly government-dominated religious bodies—the Lutheran and Reformed Churches.

HOW LONG?

How long this new-found freedom of worship will continue, Mr. Chappel could not predict.

"There comes a danger point beyond which you dare not oppress a nation if you want to rule it successfully," he said. "I don't think the Communists have quite learned their lesson."

CHURCHES CROWDED

During his visit, he noted Protestant and Catholic churches were crowded at every service, but Sunday School and young people's work, group discussions, and religious instruction were strictly prohibited.

Churches have not been allowed to print religious books since 1948, although they are permitted to distribute a maximum of 25 mimeographed copies.

Special church services for young people were being conducted by "big sports programs and music festivals which are designed to draw the children from the church," he said.

"The Christian home has kept the church going in Hungary," Mr. Chappel said.

"Children are able to learn more in their own homes by example than they could through any religious instruction. The home has saved the day."

RIGHTS DENIED

Mr. Chappel's main criticism of Communism is not its economic philosophy but "a dictatorship that denies human rights and freedom."

"The fundamental right of every person is human dignity and freedom," he said. "I don't think Communism will ever kill that anywhere."

The World Council secretary spoke this morning to ministers and clergy at Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall, publicizing the world convention on Christian Education in Tokyo next August.

Father Installs Son As President Esquimalt Legion

Peter Francis was installed as president of the Canadian Legion, Esquimalt branch No. 172, at an annual meeting Wednesday night.

Installing officer was his father, Michael Francis, a past president of the branch.

Other officers installed by Col. R. B. Longridge, zone commander, were George Kraeling, first vice-president; William Glover, second vice-president; Leslie Jones, sergeant-at-arms; Jack Carey, secretary-treasurer; Bert Thomas, finance chairman; Ken Avery, house committee; Howie Hodgson, membership; Eric Colmer, ways and means, and D. A. Sadler, publicity.

COMPROMISE

"We think it's a reasonable compromise," the minister said. The issue is expected to be raised again by council members before the committee.

The committee rose at noon without discussing the Vancouver charter amendment dealing with Sunday sport, most controversial of all changes sought by the city. It will be discussed at another committee hearing Friday morning.

Five Tag Days Recommended By City Group

City council finance committee recommended today that five organizations be permitted to hold tag days here this year as compared to four in the past.

They are Women's Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital, Ladies' Auxiliary to Gorge Hospital, Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League, Remembrance Day Committee and Cerebral Palsy Association.

Decision to recommend the increase in tag days to council followed hearing of a delegation from the Cerebral Palsy Society.

Two other applicants, IOOE and the Junior Auxiliary to the B.C. Protestant Orphanage were not included in the recommendation. Ald. Austin Curtis pointed out that with exception of the Remembrance Day Committee the tag days were limited last year to organizations connected with hospitals.

SAANICH COUNCILLORS

Saanich councillors Leslie Passmore and S. W. Brock were named by Reeve Arthur Ash Wednesday to serve with himself and comptroller-treasurer John Tribe on a special committee to investigate school financing.

Committee members from Greater Victoria municipalities will make recommendations on the matter of school costs and taxation.

TRAFFIC FINES

Victor Polsey, Camp Gordon Head, $25 for driving without a licence.

John C. Ferreira, 1859 San Juan, $35 for careless driving; remanded to March 27 for probation report on licence suspension.

Ten new buses have been ordered for Victoria by the B.C. Electric, it was announced Wednesday.

The $250,000 order has been given to Canadian Car (Brill) Ltd., Fort William, and General Motors, Oshawa. Each firm will deliver five buses for use in July or possibly earlier.

Outdoor Club of Victoria will hike through hills near Grant Lake Sunday. Members will meet at the Veterans' Stage Depot, 728 Herald Street, at 9:45 a.m., and transportation by private cars will be available. Further information may be obtained from Maureen Evans, 2-1182.

Col. and Mrs. Russell Clarke, from the Salvation Army headquarters in San Francisco, will show films on Rhodesia and Japan at a public meeting in the Salvation Army Citadel here Saturday at 8 p.m. Col. Russell also will speak at services in the citadel Sunday.

Times' associate editor Brian Tobin will address a meeting of the United Nations Association in the Blue Room, 1303 Broad Street, next Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Social Credit federal candidate in the Victoria riding, Waldo Skillings will address Social Credit Group No. 72 in the YWCA tonight at 8.

Victoria council finance committee today approved transfer of about five acres of land at Harriet and Balfour to Gorge View Society for $15,000. The acreage will be site of a cottage style old peoples' development. Final approval must be obtained from city council. The project will be financed one-third by the United Church of Canada, one-third by the provincial government and one-third by local subscription. Finance committee authorized the sale after deleting from the land parcel five lots on Balfour worth a total of $5,000.

Fire Protection Assurance Given

FROM B.C. TO BUCKINGHAM IN 600 YEARS

A Queen Charlotte Islands cedar tree which was a seedling during the reign of Edward III—600 years ago—will begin a new life Saturday.

At 10:30 a.m., in Thunderbird Park, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross will start the giant cedar on its way to becoming B.C.'s commemorative centennial totem pole.

Queen Elizabeth has consented to accept the totem, which, when carved, will be 100 feet tall—one foot of carving for each year of B.C.'s history.

On Saturday the lieutenant-governor will slice a sharp blade into the tree, to declare carving officially started.

William Bayliss, 3421 Mayfair, company owner, had a different suggestion.

His idea is that the tail end of Gorge Road near the circle be re-routed a block back, which would focal Gorge traffic a different route and help cut circle congestion.

Bob White, a taxi driver, said he doesn't think Victoria is large enough for one-way streets.

"We had them here before, downtown," he recalled, "and it was a mess. An underpass is the only way to fix 'Fountain Circle.'"

William Bayliss, 3421 Mayfair, company owner, had a different suggestion.

"We had them here before, downtown," he recalled, "and it was a mess. An underpass is the only way to fix 'Fountain Circle.'"

William Bayliss, 3421 Mayfair, company owner, had a different suggestion.

His idea is that the tail end of Gorge Road near the circle be re-routed a block back, which would focal Gorge traffic a different route and help cut circle congestion.

Bridge-Isolated Vic West Promised Aid From Navy

Assurance of naval fire department protection for Victoria West during the three-month reconstruction of Point Ellice Bridge this summer was received at city hall today.

A letter to the city's fire wardens' committee from Rear Admiral H. F. Pullen said it was impossible for the RCN to enter into any formal agreement for fire protection services, but "should circumstances make it necessary," emergency service will be provided.

Ald. Austin Curtis, chairman of the council fire warden committee said he was confident Victoria West would have adequate protection.

"It is only in the event the Johnson Street bridge is raised at the time of an alarm that any emergency could arise which would require outside help," he pointed out.

Fire chief Frank Briers had earlier recommended re-opening on a temporary basis of the old Victoria West fire hall and the stationing there of one truck and three shifts of three firemen. The suggestion was not adopted by the council committee in view of the expense involved.

The chief said at the time, "Should a fire occur in Victoria West while the Point Ellice bridge is closed to traffic, the area would be isolated if it were a peak traffic hour or Johnson Bridge were open."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Intricately Engraved Brass Makes Padlocks Attractive

By PENNY SAVER

Here, there and everywhere... that's where I roamed on my last shopping trip. I was intrigued by items in one fascinating shop, especially. Have you ever seen a mandarin lock? They are Oriental padlocks of ornately engraved brass. A novel, push-through key quickly and easily locks the chest or drawer. They come in several sizes at 69 and 98 cents. Ornamental as well as practical, they will bring interested glances and are real conversation pieces.

Japanese bamboo forks in sets of six are good buys, also. At 19, 39 or 49 cents a set, they will serve you well, especially if you're planning an oriental dinner party. Other forks are 5 cents each and spoons are 15 and 19 cents each.

Serving plates at clearance prices of 49 and 69 cents have lovely gold ornamentation on orange or black backgrounds. They will add a touch of color to your sets of serving dishes, and will look lovely in your glass-front china cabinet, too.

Ornate and eye-catching are beautiful, hand-made silk brocade tea cosies in all the gorgeous oriental patterns and colors. These quilted cosies come in two sizes. There are novel hot water bottle covers, too. The price range for both cosies and covers are $1.98 to $2.69. They are almost too attractive to have a practical use, one would think, but the combination of materials and workmanship makes these inexpensive items budget favorites.

Something a bit different and new are game books edited especially to help hostesses at bridal showers. A complete party, from beginning to end, is planned and explained in each book, and games galore are suggested. It's always a bit of a worry finding games that everyone will enjoy at a shower party, but the worries are over with this book. There is also a kiddies' game book to help mother out on rainy days. Both books are selling at $1 each.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

"Buy by Grade, Buy With Confidence" has become a guide when the Canadian homemaker goes shopping. Each graded food carries a distinct grade marking, either on the container or on the product itself. Thrifty shoppers look for the grade mark and buy the grade that best suits their purpose.

All creamery butter sold in Canada is graded. The grade mark must be shown on the main panel of the wrapper and carton in which the butter is sold. Highest quality butter is Canada first grade. It has excellent flavor and uniform color, and is well made and smooth, with a waxy texture.

When honey is shipped from one province to another, it must be classified as to color and graded—No. 1, No. 2, No. 3 or Sub-Standard, in order of quality. A great deal of honey sold within the province where it is produced is also graded. Color does not affect the grade but it is an indication of flavor. Generally darker honey has a stronger flavor.

WHY GROW OLD?

Sleeping Without Pillow Is Restful and Helpful

Many beautiful women sleep without a pillow! There is no medical reason for using a pillow. It is merely a question of habit. Actually it is very restful to lie on one's back without a pillow. I think most people feel the need of one when on their side.

Large pillows are conducive to a Dowager's Hump because they push the head forward. If you cannot sleep without a pillow why not try a very small compact one? Most of you know that a Dowager's Hump is the hump at the base of the neck in the back. This can be very unattractive when a woman has an otherwise lovely neck.

This defect is caused by poor posture and an accumulation of fat in this spot. Massage and corrective exercises are helpful. One must also remain aware of posture during the day, trying to stretch the back neck by keeping the chin parallel to the floor and pushing toward the ceiling with the top of the head. If possible, add to this the habit of sleeping and resting on your back without a pillow.

Fatigue seems to hit many folks at the back of the neck. Exercise will help you.

On Etiquette

About a wedding in Alaska: Our son who is in Alaska is to be married next summer to a girl who lives there with her family. The young lady has written, asking for a list of relatives and friends to whom we would like invitations and/or announcements sent.

Since it isn't likely that any of our friends or family will attend, should I put them all on the announcement list or should I have invitations sent to the immediate family and a few close friends, and announcements to others?

I'm afraid that we may not be able to make such a long trip either. What are our obligations at this distance?

Louise Davis answers:

Winter Games May Include Curling

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—Curling may be included in the winter Olympics of 1960 at Squaw Valley, Calif., Sam Rotschild of Sudbury, Ont., president of the Dominion Curling Association, said today.

He said a request from the U.S. Curling Association to have curling included in the 1960 Olympic Games was discussed at the recent DCA annual meeting in Kingston, Ont.

The U.S. Olympic committee received the request favorably and the Royal Caledonia of Scotland was asked for its opinion. All curling clubs in the world are affiliated with the Royal Caledonia.

"If we get its O.K., then you might see curling in the next Olympics," Rotschild said.

died. The Crown charges the doctor drugged her to death to benefit from her will.

SURPRISE INTRODUCTION
The defence introduced the logbooks as a surprise two days ago. Manningham-Buller admitted he had not known of their existence. The books were not mentioned in the preliminary hearing when the Crown accused Adams of also killing two other patients who lived near Mrs. Morrell in Eastbourne, Victorian haven for the wealthy retired.

The attorney-general read the following from a supposed copy of the original logbook entry for Aug. 23, 1950:

"7 a.m. Bottle of sleeping tablets now in drawer, found loose in bed. Mrs. Morrell very heavy. Dr. Adams called. Hypo grains one-half caffeine. Treatment given."

The Crown said someone had written in the words "hypo grains one-half caffeine" in green ink, while the rest of the writing was in blue ink. The attorney-general also asserted the words "called" and "treatment" had been cut through.

Miss Randall testified the words "treatment given" did not appear in the original nursing book which she was looking at.

SLIP MISSING
Justice Sir Patrick Arthur Devlin leaned forward from his high perch in the musty setting of Old Bailey and asked to see the logbook. A slip of about one inch was missing from the bottom of the page.

Adams followed the testimony closely, at times jotting in a big notebook and shuffling through papers in two folders he had with him.

Cross-examined by defence counsel Geoffrey Lawrence, Miss Randall agreed that "for months and months and months" Mrs. Morrell's regular treatment of morphine and heroin injections hardly varied.

But, she added, she was sure they increased before September, 1950.

The defence lawyer asked: "Right up to the very end, the object of the treatment was, if possible, to give her the rest and sleep she vitally and essentially needed?"

"YES," Miss Randall replied, "yes."

Testimony by Miss Randall, with Mrs. Morrell the night she died, opened the fourth day of the trial, at which Adams pleaded not guilty. In early questioning by the Crown she said she could not remember whether drug injections for the woman were increased toward the end of her life.

But, confronted with nursing reports, she told the court "I should say she was having more."

Manningham-Buller questioned Miss Randall about injections of paraldehyde, a sleeping drug said to have been given Mrs. Morrell a few hours before she died at 2 a.m. on a November morning.

Holding in her hand a five cc. medical syringe, the nurse said that when Adams gave it to her to make the injection it was about three-quarters full. She said he refilled it by the same amount and gave it to her to make a later injection.

The Crown asked why this later injection was not mentioned in the nursing report at the time. Miss Randall said "I just can't think."

Inter-Municipal Group to Fight For New School Financing Deal

An inter-municipal committee comprising council and school board representatives was established here Wednesday to study inequalities in school financing.

The group will prepare a brief protesting the Williston school formula for presentation to provincial and federal governments.

The unified campaign to relieve municipalities of growing school costs parallels protest actions by the Union of B.C. Municipalities and the B.C. School Trustees' Association.

Aldermen and trustees buried the hatchet at the joint meeting at City Hall.

4-WAY ATTACK
They debated four courses of action which will be studied at later meetings of the inter-municipal and board meeting.

Lawmakers Reject Woman's Bid On Mine Property

A legislature committee Wednesday turned down the latest bid of Mrs. Minnie Mead May to gain full possession of a disputed mining property near Kaslo.

Mrs. May has been carrying on a battle for the last 40 years to wrest control from the Daybreak Mining Co. on behalf of the Gibson Mining Co., interests, which she represents as liquidator.

This year she brought a bill before the House private bills committee, sponsored by Social Credit MLA Bert Price.

"We decide the bill was outside the jurisdiction of the committee in view of the fact that the companies are being wound up under a Dominion statute," committee chairman A. S. Matthews said today.

They are:
1. To seek an increase in the amount the provincial government will pay toward teachers' salaries. (At present the government pays 50 per cent up to a maximum far below actual salary costs.)

2. To ask the provincial government to decrease the basic portion of school costs (an amount equal to 10 mills on the municipal gross assessment) which the municipalities must pay before any provincial sharing.

3. To ask a provincial income tax be introduced to provide for all education costs, taking all levies for schools off the property owner.

4. To propose the provincial government assume all costs of education and school construction, at the same time cancelling provincial grants to municipalities, as a recompense.

$5.1 MILLION
The meeting was called by Victoria council to study the 1957 school budget of $5,153,161.

Board secretary Thomas Christie explained that under the financing scheme, any cuts which might be effected would be a savings only to the province "without affecting local taxation by one cent."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell said: "It is the same deplorable situation as before."

He said the municipalities must stick together and "tell the government it is most unfair that councils should have no control over one-third of their budgets."

Board chairman W. H. Colby said: "The referendum system probably will not work again in this area. Some new suggestion should be evolved by the government."

LITTLE SAY
Ald. Hugh Ramsay stated: "The school board has little to say in compiling the budget, the council has little to say in paying it. If the provincial government took over all school costs in lieu of grants—how would the figures compare?"

The meeting voted to investigate this suggestion.

Saanich councillor Leslie Passmore said: "Generally speaking ratepayers are opposed to the method of collecting revenue. It's unfair, unjust and inequitable."

He had checked the Saanich tax roll and found farmers paying an average tax of $188, professional men an average of $121 and an old age pensioner with her own home, $55 while her income was $480 for a year.

"Change it so those gaining most from living here should pay most. Let's not quibble with the school board or ourselves. Let's go to the government."

17-Year-Old Admits Three Burglaries

A 17-year-old boy pleaded guilty in city police court today to three charges of breaking, entering and theft dating back to Feb. 16, and was remanded to next Thursday.

Calvin Wilson, 718 Queens, was charged with entering via a window King's Auto Repairs Ltd., 2504 Government, Feb. 16, and stealing 20 cents in pennies, two flashlights and seven flashlight batteries.

His second charge resulted from entry Feb. 20 of Island Highway Service Station, 2702 Government, by means of removing a metal plate near a door lock and theft of $2 in pennies.

Third offence occurred Mar. 12 when he forced a rear door of the barber shop of Alfred Fraboni, 1816 Cook, and stole 100 packages of cigarettes, four cigarette lighters and a cigarette rolling machine.

About 60 packages of cigarettes were recovered, along with the lighters and roller. An order for restitution was made.

Wilson was transferred from juvenile court on each charge.

QUAKE TOLL
Roads Split 15 Feet Wide; Tots Screamed

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Earthquake in the Aleutians last week caused heavy damage on Adak Island and left children so frightened they awakened screaming at night, an observer reported Wednesday.

Ward Wells, Anchorage commercial photographer, toured the Aleutian Island chain where more than 80 aftershocks have been felt since the heavy March 9 quake that caused Pacific tidal waves. He made the trip last weekend.

Wells said most of the damage was on Adak, midway in the island chain. He said some roads have splits 15 feet wide and eight feet deep, some buildings are damaged and road guardrails "look like they had been put in by some drunk."

New Shrimp Species Tastes Like Lobster

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A new species of shrimp, called the royal red and having a flavor similar to lobster, went on sale here today. The shrimp is the result of a year's research by the U.S. fish and wildlife service in waters off Daytona Beach and St. Augustine in Florida.

Death Toll 5 While Trying To Save Others

MAHONOMET, Minn. (AP)—Five persons were killed today, three of them by electrocution when they tried to remove dead and injured from a car after it struck a power pole.

Killed when their car went into a ditch were William E. Schultz, 28, of Winger, Minn., the driver, and Donald Haugen, 21, also of Winger.

Schultz apparently died of injuries but Haugen was electrocuted. The younger man cried out "I'm being shocked" before he died at the scene.

Six other occupants of the car, mostly teen-agers, were injured. The first car on the scene was driven by Marvin Duncan, Jr., 18, of Fosston, Minn. Both he and passenger Arnold Rolf, 18, of Fosston, were electrocuted when they went to the Schultz car.

The same fate met Clark Hoidal, 21, of Winger, who came along in another car and also sought to aid the accident victims. Mahonomet, population 1,500, is about 250 miles northwest of Minneapolis.

VIEW ROYAL LOWER
He pointed out the assessment for school costs is lower against the rural area of View Royal, "a high-class residential area," than the levy on the four local municipalities.

Reeve Arthur Ash suggested construction of steel schools would be an economy.

Trustee Richard Reeve said the board had discovered otherwise, but this matter will be looked into also, to determine why costs should be higher here when they are far cheaper on the prairies.

Mayor Scurrah will appoint city representatives to a committee to study these problems and prepare a brief. He called on other municipalities to appoint delegates.

First meeting will be at the call of the chair.

Driver Hospitalized When Car Rams Rocks

One man is in hospital with head and possible back injuries and eight others escaped serious injury as a result of two overnight traffic accidents.

John Leighton Smith, 23, YMCA, is in good condition at Jubilee Hospital where he was taken by Oak Bay police at 5:30 a.m. today after the car he was driving went out of control and crashed into a rocky bank on Cadboro Bay Road near Bowker.

Two unidentified passengers were uninjured.

Police said Smith was driving south on Cadboro Bay when he lost control of the car on a curve at Bowker, then careened into the bank below Mountain View home.

The driver and five passengers in a 1946 model English car emerged practically unscathed when the auto left Patricia Bay Highway on a curve four miles south of Sidney and rolled at least once into a ditch at about 8:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Driver was reported to be Robert J. Beazley, 16, of Sidney. One passenger, teen-aged Gary Holt, also of Sidney, received a minor cut on the top of the head.

Car owner, a passenger at the time, was identified by Central Saanich police as Alan J. Horan, 23, Sidney. Other passengers, all from Sidney, were Noel and Wayne Coward and Ken Fox.

The car was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars, police said. It had been proceeding south on the highway when Beazley lost control.

Federal Fisheries Minister James Sinclair, provincial Labor Minister Lyle Wicks, conservationist Roderick Haig-Brown and Comox-Alberni member of parliament Tom Barnett will be among speakers at the 13th annual convention of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union in Vancouver starting Sunday.

An estimated 135 delegates will attend, including several from Vancouver Island.

Top item on the agenda will be protection of salmon runs against harmful power projects and pollution.

The cruiser HMCS Ontario and the frigates HMC Ships Jonquier and Stettler will remain at the U.S. naval base for six days.

They are scheduled to return to Esquimalt May 3.

UBC Professors Went 600 Miles To Give Lectures

VERNON—The Board of Trade here April 5 marks the end of its fourth annual business management course conducted by professors from the University of British Columbia School of Commerce.

It is probably the first time in Canada that professors of a university have travelled 600 miles each weekend to lecture to young businessmen.

The lectures were sponsored jointly by the Vernon and Kelowna boards of trade.

More than 100 candidates were enrolled during the course.

Guest speaker at the April 5 banquet will be Dr. E. D. McPhee, UBC commerce faculty head.

Turner, a man in his thirties, is represented by lawyer James Proudfoot.

In opening the case, Crown counsel R. A. Wootton said the Crown claimed that Turner was "reckless" and did not have due regard for the safety of the public at the time of the accident.

The trial, being heard by Mr. Justice J. V. Cline, is expected to end Friday afternoon.

Mr. Justice Cline set the trial of Colin Chalmers, 22, charged with armed robbery, for next Wednesday.

Chalmers is accused of the Feb. 11 armed robbery of $3,600 from the Canadian Bank of Commerce, James Bay.

Israel Predicts Failure for UN

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—Israeli sources predicted today that UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld would have no success in getting Egypt to renounce its state of belligerency with Israel.

And they said without a renunciation of belligerency, under which Egypt bars Israeli shipping from the Suez Canal, Israel will be unable to compromise further on its security.

Ontario Acquitted of Murder

TORONTO (CP)—William Ruskin, 24, appeared in court today and in less than five minutes was acquitted on a murder charge.

Mr. Justice Ayles of the Ontario Supreme Court ordered him released on a writ of habeas corpus.

He had been charged in the death of his former landlady, Mrs. Vera Willis, 41, three months ago. Authorities found she died of accidental suffocation.

Red Paper Fearful of Bermuda Talks

MOSCOW (AP)—Izvestia today calls the Bermuda big two talks a "grave danger" to British interests.

The Soviet government newspaper says President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan evidently are trying to co-ordinate their strategy "on the basis of their common enemy" toward Communism.

New English Multiple Death Probe

BLANDFORD, England (AP)—Detectives investigating the deaths of seven residents of an old folks home today they have asked for permission to exhume the body of Rosa Darby.

Miss Darby, who was a wig-maker, died 13 months ago at the age of 86. Her death certificate recorded heart disease.

She lived in retirement at Castleman House. Deaths of six other persons in the home during the last two years are being investigated and police said they may apply for further exhumation orders.

Canadian Local Will Not Aid Beck

TORONTO (CP)—William Mills, head of a teamsters' union local, said today the local will not support international president David Beck in his drive for financial aid to help union leaders indicted for contempt of the United States Congress.

Mills said of Mr. Beck's request for aid: "We're in the labor movement—not the racket squad. There's no reason for any union official to hide behind a loophole in the constitution."

It's 'Harold', 'Ike' at Bermuda

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—It's "Harold" and "Ike" when Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower address each other privately.

Associates say the two have been on a first-name basis since they worked together in North Africa during the war and became good friends.

Big Two Study
Future UN RoleNo Revision of Charter Planned
But No Complete Reliance Wanted

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Ready Canadian support of a British contention that the United Nations must not be entrusted with all crucial world problems was anticipated today as Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower held the first formal session of their Bermuda conference.

The British and American leaders met in the boardroom of the Mid-Ocean Club, the exclusive hostelry where they held an informal dinner talk Wednesday night on global problems they will tackle during the rest of the week.

The Middle East crisis was announced as the most urgent issue on the agenda, as Macmillan and Eisenhower formally began their talks this morning.

Reuters said a possible boycott of the Suez Canal should be considered against British and French shipping will be among measures to be considered.

Pearson Leans Toward U.K. View

In the Canadian view, the British feel isolated not only from the United States but also to some extent from the Commonwealth as a result of the Anglo-French Suez intervention last fall.

They feel frustrated, it is said here, by an apparent double standard in the UN.

That is, Britain obeyed the UN's Suez resolutions while other countries such as Russia and Egypt continue to ignore UN calls or even treat them with contempt.

It is understood that Macmillan doesn't intend to propose revision of the UN charter, but that he will point out to Eisenhower that complete reliance cannot be placed on the UN to solve difficult world problems.

This attitude already has received a measure of support from Canadian External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson who has said that there is a tendency in some countries to avoid facing up to the realities of national policy by relying completely on the UN.

He has said the UN is no substitute for the formulation and execution of wise national foreign policies.

Pearson made clear he was not referring to any particular nation or nations but it is generally accepted here that his reference included the United States.

Pearson also objected to some Continued on Page 27

SIZING UP ARMY LIFE

LESTER PATRICK

HIS GREATEST GAME

It is rather unusual to hear an outstanding athlete declare that his greatest game was played in a small town, far from the "madding" throng of ten or twelve thousand screaming fans in a metropolitan city.

But that's the way it was with Lester Patrick. Looking back over 50 years in hockey he thinks he gave his greatest performance and gained the greatest personal satisfaction out of a game played in Rossland, B.C., in the 1907-08 season.

The Rossland rink was a mere 165 feet by 65 feet, about half the size of the ice surface at Memorial Arena.

Rossland was a rollicking mining town and the folks took their hockey, like their liquor, straight. When they learned that Nelson would be captained by "Stanley Cup player," Lester Patrick, they planned to ride him out of the rink if necessary.

As soon as the Nelson players appeared for the warm-up, the Rossland fans turned on the razzberry machine. "N. The fire was aimed directly at Lester."

Before the opening whistle, Lester skated over to his defence partner, and said: "Listen, I'm not venturing far down the ice tonight. I'm going to stand on a dime and every time I get the puck I'll

Mass Resignation
Slated in Drive
For Higher Wages

(UP and Reuters)

LONDON—British doctors today announced strike action against the state to press claims for higher pay and presented a detailed plan to pull out of the national health service next fall.

The plan called for a progressive "snowball" withdrawal starting Oct. 2 of all doctors by means of resignations from the national health service.

British doctors asked last June for an all-around salary increase of 24 per cent.

The government rejected the doctors' claim in February but announced that a royal commission would be appointed to "review medical remuneration."

A 24 per cent increase would have lifted an average general practitioner's earnings to $7,560.

Doctor A. Talbot Rogers, chairman of the General Medical Services Committee and joint chairman of the negotiating committee of the medical profession, presented the doctors' withdrawal plan at a press conference today.

The crews of privately owned tugs refused to help move the New York-bound Queen Mary. Six government tugs got her out of the harbor. Many of the 910 passengers lined the Queen Mary's deck to cheer the tugs.

Labor Minister Iain Macleod was fighting two more giant strike threats from unions demanding 10-per-cent wage increases, the same percentage increase sought by shipyard workers.

The threats came from engineering and railway workers. The engineering unions have called a phased strike starting Saturday. It would bring out by stages 2,500,000 workers.

The union plans an initial walkout of 1,000,000 men in 10 vital industrial regions, with others joining daily until key plants in Britain are crippled by April 6.

The shipyard workers claimed repairs on the 81,000-ton Queen Mary had not been finished when the shipyard strike began last Saturday. The walkout of 250,000 men closed 70 shipyards and stopped work on 300 vessels under construction.

The Crown suggested today a nurse's logbook had been altered in the case of the rich widow Dr. John Bodkin Adams is accused of poisoning.

Attorney-General Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller startled the court with his attack on the records which lawyers for the 58-year-old doctor used in challenging testimony given from memory by Crown witnesses.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Tsk, Tsk, Tsk!
Such Goings-On

Two elderly ladies left their seats in the public galleries Wednesday night when a hassle developed on the floor of the House.

Possibly they were shocked by the spectacle of four or five legislators shouting abuse at one another while a bewildered and much-harassed committee chairman (Alex Mathew) vainly called for order.

It is clear, however, that most members of the public enjoy these legislative fireworks. Men and women of all ages craned forward watching the contest as eagerly as if they had ringside seats at a wrestling match.

"I hear they put on a good show tonight," remarked one of the buildings staff as I left soon after midnight. He sounded disappointed at not being there during the uproar.

This attitude is not hard to understand when you consider those long and interminable stretches of routine law-making—the droning passage of bills and estimates—when scarcely a note of protest is heard.

Premier's Son, Observes

R. J. Bennett, eldest son of the premier, visited the legislature Wednesday from his home in Kelowna.

He manages the five hardware stores which Premier Bennett established in the Okanagan Valley.

Young Mr. Bennett sat on the floor of the House, a few paces behind his father, and followed proceedings for more than three hours.

All hopes of prorogation by the end of this week have

Private School Tax Issue Will Be Heated

This applies particularly to the clause which would exempt private schools from municipal taxation, with the government reimbursing the municipalities for loss of taxes.

It is doubtful if there are sufficient protesting backbenchers to force changes in the bill. But there may be enough to hinder its passage.

The Somers-Sturdy case seems to be just about dead as far as the current session is concerned.

Hardly any discussion arose on the issue Wednesday afternoon when debate on the salary vote of Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston came before the House.

Only mention was made by Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook), who asked whether "in view of the serious now been abandoned. The large amount of unfinished legislation clearly indicates the session cannot wind up before Friday of next week at the earliest.

There is even a possibility it may run into the middle of the week after.

The government's new Municipal Act—its 899 sections—has still to be considered in detail and some of the clauses are opposed by Social Credit backbenchers as well as the Opposition.

Found Guilty

Of 28-Year-Old Gang Killing

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — A jury found 63-year-old James Cockeye O'Leary guilty of murder in the second degree Wednesday in a gangland prohibition era slaying 28 years ago.

Judge Edward G. Colleser set April 12 for sentencing. The charge of second degree murder carries a maximum sentence of 30 years in prison.

O'Leary was tried on an indictment which had lain forgotten since the shooting victim, Alex Schmutz Szabo, fell under a hail of bullets in the rear of a Passaic garage on May 2, 1929.

Four men were charged with the slaying and all were released on bail. O'Leary for $10,000 in 1934. Acting Passaic County Prosecutor Charles S. Joelson found the indictment in his files last December. The whereabouts of the other three are not known.

DEATH TOLL 5

3 Electrocuted
While Trying To Save Others

MAHONOMET, Minn. (AP)—Five persons were killed today; three of them by electrocution when they tried to remove dead and injured from a car after it struck a power pole.

Killed when their car went into a ditch were William E. Schultz, 28, of Winger; Mign, the driver, and Donald Haugen, 21, also of Winger.

Schultz apparently died of injuries but Haugen was electrocuted. The younger man cried out "I'm being shocked" before he died at the scene.

Six other occupants of the car, mostly teenagers, were injured.

The first car on the scene was driven by Marvin Duncan, Jr., 18, of Fosston, Minn. Both he and passenger Arnold Rolf, 18, of Fosston, were electrocuted when they went to the Schultz car.

The same fate met Clark Holdahl, 21, of Winger, who came along in another car and also sought to aid the accident victims.

Mahonomet, population 1,500, is about 250 miles northwest of Minneapolis.

QUAKE TOLL

Roads Split
15 Feet Wide;
Tots Screamed

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Earthquake in the Aleutians last week caused heavy damage on Adak Island and left children so frightened they awakened screaming at night, an observer reported Wednesday.

Ward Wells, Anchorage commercial photographer, toured the Aleutian Island chain where more than 80 aftershocks have been felt since the heavy March 9 quake that caused Pacific tidal waves. He made the trip last weekend.

Wells said most of the damage was on Adak, midway in the island chain. He said some roads have splits 15 feet wide and eight feet deep, some buildings are damaged and road guardrails "look like they had been put in by some drunk."

United Fisherman
To Hear Sinclair
On Salmon Runs

Federal Fisheries Minister James Sinclair, provincial Labor Minister Lyle Wicks, conservationist Roderick Haig-Brown and Comox-Alberni member of parliament Tom Barnett will be among speakers at the 13th annual convention of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union in Vancouver starting Sunday.

An estimated 135 delegates will attend, including several from Vancouver Island.

Top item on the agenda will be protection of salmon runs against harmful power projects and pollution.

The B.C. cabinet today approved a seasonal allowance of $2,500 for E. K. DeBeck, clerk of the legislature, and $1,500

Suburban Satellites
Just Free-Loaders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A central city should have unilateral power to annex its suburban satellites, says William Zeckendorf.

The "free-loading, carpet-bagging suburbanites aren't entitled to any voice in the decision," he said.

Zeckendorf, president of Webb and Knapp, Inc., New York, and a big operator in urban development, told his views at a press conference Wednesday before addressing the American Society of Planning Officials.

The test of annexing a suburban town, he said, should be simply:

"Can the town get along without the city, the mother ship? If it can't, it belongs."

Asked if his idea wasn't undemocratic, Zeckendorf, retorted:

"Not at all. 'It's the suburban towns who are violating democracy because they don't fully share the responsibilities of their metropolitan region.'"

Zeckendorf declared suburban residents "are not entitled to enjoy the city's art museums and all the cultural and social assets of the central city—and then go on home and pay their little local taxes."

Zeckendorf said the Toronto plan of metropolitan government "as a prototype is the best thing I know."

Mineral Tax
Aimed Against
Iron-Ore Export

The provincial government plans to introduce a new tax on mineral property that is aimed at deterring the export of iron ore that is under production.

Introduced in the legislature Wednesday, the new act places a tax of up to 10 per cent on the assessed value of crown-granted land containing iron ore that is under production.

The act may apply the tax on other types of minerals but that is not considered likely.

All iron production in B.C. at present is exported. The government is attempting to have a basic iron and steel industry set up in the province through bounties and other concessions.

The new act, similar to legislation in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, circumvents federal legislation which gives Ottawa sole jurisdiction over such a tax.

The tax is placed on the land above the mine instead of on the ore production itself.

Ash Favors
Douglas St.
Underpass

Suggestion of an underpass at Douglas Street for a proposed east-west highway link along McKenzie Avenue in Saanich was greeted favorably by Reeve Arthur Ash Wednesday.

Deputy highways minister Evan Jones, who made the suggestion, said a potentially dangerous intersection would be eliminated.

APPROVED

Preliminary plans for the western end of the highway, which would connect Patricia Bay Highway with the Trans-Canada Highway in the first stage (and carry traffic to and from the Chedoke Bay area in the second stage), have been approved by Saanich council.

They were forwarded to the deputy minister for his consideration and advice.

It is hoped the province will pay for a large part of the project.

Mr. Ash said he would seek a meeting to discuss cost-sharing with Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi and possibly Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Duncan Man "Burned
In Stove Explosion

DUNCAN, B.C. (CP)—An elderly man was seriously burned early today in a flash fire which followed an explosion while he was lighting a small stove.

In serious condition in King's Daughters' Hospital is Frank Doney, in his late 60's, of Cowichan Station.

Mrs. James Martin of Duncan said Mr. Doney had arrived at the hospital about 15 minutes before the fire to take over her husband's saw-filing business while Mr. Martin was in hospital after a heart attack.

"I told him to light a fire in the stove in the saw-filing shop," Mrs. Martin said. "Then when I came to the door a few minutes later, I saw him staggering from the building with his clothing enveloped in flames." "I wrapped him in blankets on the ground and screamed as loudly as I could for help."

Some passing loggers came to her aid and were joined later by the Duncan volunteer fire department. His smoldering clothing was stripped from him and he was taken to hospital.

About all that remained of Mr. Doney's clothing was the crown of his hat, a badly burned mackinaw and one smoldering shoe ripped from his foot by firemen. His badly charred pocketbook filled with money was found on the ground.

Firemen said an exploded can which had contained kerosene was found in the shop. The flames did the building with his clothing en-not spread.

Industrials, Oils Make Strong Gains

Industrials and western oils recorded strong gains today during light trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The trading pace was the slowest in more than a month. In slow trading at New York, the market showed a mixed price trend today. A few scattered issues displayed strength at times. Aviation and railroads mostly forged ahead while chemicals and motors tilted lower.

AT TORONTO — Advocate Mines featured trading. Amid a turnover of more than 12,000 shares, the stock dropped $1.90 to $7.50. It touched $7.25 shortly after noon. In the last two months, while rumors circulated that Johns-Manville was interested in Advocate's asbestos property in Newfoundland, Advocate climbed from $5 to Wednesday's high of $10.25. Other mining price changes were confined to 20 cents in lower-priced issues and a point among senior stocks. Coppers, uranium and junior base metals were mixed to lower. Industrials moved in a one-point range but there were a few exceptions. Imperial Bank added 2 1/2 points at 49.40 amid moderate trading. Dominion Oilcloth was up 1 1/2 points to 29 1/2. Aluminum lost a point at 119.
